To Aid Unity

Way Cleared For Decree

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican Ecumenical Council cleared the way Saturday for Pope Paul VI to proclaim a pathfinding Roman Catholic church decree for the road to Christian unity.

The vote marked the end of the next to last week of this session, as the council poured on a rush of work to get documents — possibly even controversial declarations on the Jews and on religious liberty — ready for proclamation by the Pope.

In an unusually heavy day, the council fathers approved — 1,870 to 82 — a series of minor text changes in the schema "De Ecumenismo" (On Unity), the last working step before the Pope can issue the document as a full church decree. It provides for a program of common prayer with Protestants and some intercommunion with the Orthodox church.

At the same time, the prelates received copies of minor changes in the major document "De Ecclesia" (On the Church) and were told that voting on these changes would take place next Tuesday and Wednesday.

This increased the possibility that the schema — which establishes the principle that bishops share collectively with the Pope in governing the church — will also be ready for proclamation when Pope Paul and the more than 2,000 council fathers end this session in a public ceremonial gathering in St. Peter's Basilica next Saturday.

Newsmen at the American bishops' press panel were told after this morning's session that translations were being readied not only on the unity and church schemas but also on revised declarations on the Jews and on religious liberty. A panel spokesman said translations from the Latin were being readied in the hope that all four documents might be proclaimed on the last day of the session.

The day's developments marked a sudden shift in mood in council circles. Up until now it had been widely reported that only the unity schema — and possibly the document on shared papal-episcopal power — would reach the final stage, with proclamation of the declarations on the Jews and religious liberty left over for the fourth session of the council.

Despite preparation of the translations, it was pointed out that there is no certainty the declarations, or even the De Ecclesia schema, would be promulgated next Saturday.

But the council is clearly determined to try to get as much done as possible. Archbishop Pericle Felici, council secretary-general, announced there would be afternoon sessions next week if necessary. The council normally meets only in the morning.

Only two schemata have been proclaimed since the council began in October 1962 — a document reforming church liturgy and another on modern mass media.

GARDEN HOSE ASSISTANCE — E. J. Green, (foreground) 717 West Seventh, gave firemen a hand with a garden hose in fighting the blaze in back of his residence Friday afternoon. A storage shed at the rear of Green's residence was destroyed and firemen doused flames eating away at a garage on the property of Dr. F. B. Long, 723 West Seventh. Green was taking a nap when he was called to the door and told of the fire. He rushed out without his shirt.

US Officer Fires At Soviet Vehicle

Soviet Colonel And Driver Are Detained Seven Hours

HEIDELBERG, Germany (AP) — An American soldier fired a shot at a Soviet army sedan to halt its approach on a side road into a restricted U.S. military area near Nuernberg in West Germany last Wednesday, the U.S. Army reported Saturday. A Soviet colonel and his enlisted driver were detained seven hours.

The U.S. Army's European Headquarters here said the car belonged to the Soviet military liaison mission attached to U.S. headquarters here.

U.S. officials protested to Soviet authorities Thursday but no Soviet response was reported.

A U.S. spokesman said the Soviet sedan entered the restricted area despite signs in English, Russian and German warning against trespassing. The American sentry shouted orders for the car to halt when it approached his post. The car kept on going.

The Army announcement said that the U.S. guard then fired a warning shot into the air and the Soviet vehicle "attempted to leave the scene."

The guard then fired at the car's left rear tire and the vehicle stopped.

The statement did not say whether the bullet scored a hit.

The United States has a similar military liaison mission in Communist East Germany. U.S. military mission cars there often are checked by East German police.

At the Nuernberg restricted area, there is a warning sign posted nearly a mile down the side road from the installation. Another sign is 200 yards from the post, the Army said.

Nuernberg is about 100 miles east of Heidelberg in southeast Germany.

Welfare Problems Discussed

Launch Operation Birthright; Up Social Security

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson and two Cabinet members talked Saturday of getting health care and bigger Social Security checks for the elderly and launching "Operation Birthright" for the young.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz pictured the next 60 days of financial and legislative planning by the administration as providing "an extraordinary opportunity for really a magnificent breakthrough."

He described Operation Birthright as an effort to keep college and doors from slamming in the faces of half a million of the 3.5 million boys and girls who will reach 18 in 1965. Details still are vague.

The labor secretary said "No, sir, I do not" when asked if he expects a rail strike. He said there is no plan to bring the the threatened strike of nonoperating rail unions before Johnson.

Secretary of Welfare Anthony J. Celebrezze predicted passage of some sort of hospital insurance program for the elderly patterned after the administration bill to tie it into Social Security system.

Celebrezze also predicted the administration will seek something in the nature of a flat $7 monthly increase in Social Security benefits approved by the Senate this year, as part of a one-package bill including health care.

Wirtz and Celebrezze met with the President at his ranch Friday and Saturday and then with reporters in Austin, 65 miles to the east.

Sunday the President goes back to Washington and a series of conferences on reports from task forces he named to come up with ideas for bettering the lot of Americans.

Both his Cabinet visitors said Johnson once again is bearing down heavily on economy in the new budgets for their departments.

Celebrezze said he expects his budget to go up from about $7.1 billion this year to $7.9 billion next year because of 22 items of legislation passed in the latest Congress. None of the increase, he said, will be for new programs.

With respect to federal economizing, one report that reached Johnson Saturday, from Budget Director Kermit Gordon, was that federal employment in September was at the lowest level in two and a half years.

It was down 34,000 from August, to a total of 2,449,527. Some of the decrease was seasonal, White House officials said, but they said the decline in regularly employed persons was 23,700 as compared with September 1963.

Snowstorm Hits In Two States

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A major snowstorm piled up huge drifts in sections of Wyoming and Colorado Saturday, but in many areas the long-parched earth received no moisture.

Travel was hazardous as heavy snow and poor visibility forced the closing of U.S. 14 over the Big Horn Mountains between Sheridan and Greybull, Wyo.

At Sheridan, in northern Wyoming, the snow was more than 9 inches in depth and was drifting in 30 mile-an-hour winds. The snow piled up to more than a foot in the high mountains.

The storm also dipped into northwestern Colorado. The critically needed precipitation failed to reach the parched wheat fields of southeastern Colorado.

Severe cold weather followed the heels of the storm.

A record low of 15 degrees below zero for this early date was set at Ely, Nev.

Travelers in the West and Southwest were warned of hazardous road conditions as wind gusts whipped the blowing snow in falling temperatures. The Weather Bureau described the storm as the coldest of the season.

Driving conditions were particularly hazardous in northern and eastern Arizona where more than one inch of snow covered the ground. At the Grand

Chokes To Death

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Thirteen-month-old Bridget Coleman choked to death Saturday when a piece of frankfurter caught in her throat.

Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Coleman told police they heard their daughter coughing and found her in the living room. They rushed her to Barnes Hospital, but she was dead.

New Temperature Set

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The temperature reached 80 degrees at 3 p. m. Saturday, breaking an all-time record for this date set at 75 in 1956.

Hearnes Asks Consideration From House

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov.-Elect Warren. E. Hearnes asked the Democratic members of the Missouri House Saturday to consider the interests of all the people of the state in the 1965 legislative session.

At the same time he pledged his fullest cooperation with the legislators.

"I want you to know my office is open to you, just as it was when I was floor leader," he said. "Your problems are my problems."

Hearnes said he would present a legislative program that would be in the best interests of all the people of the state and he hoped the legislators would go along with it.

But as a former legislator he said "Nobody recognizes the rights of people to hold their own opinions more than I do."

He predicted a productive session.

Speaker Thomas D. Graham of Jefferson City, reelected to a third term earlier, thanked Hearnes for his promises of cooperation and said all 123 Democratic members of the House would be glad to help the new governor, too, if he needed any advice on appointments.

Rep. M. E. (Charlie) Bauer of Kansas City was chosen speaker pro tem and Rep. H. F. (Pat) Patterson of Columbia was named majority floor leader, both by one-sided votes.

Here are the other officers elected in the closed caucus that lasted more than three hours:

Rep. Mel Carnahan of Rolla, assistant floor leader; Rep. Donald J. Gralike of St. Louis County, majority whip; Rep. Harry C. Raiffie of St. Louis, caucus chairman; Rep. Helen C. Hardy of Belle, caucus secretary; Mrs. Agnes Moore of Ste. Genevieve, reelected chief clerk; Orville Woodard of Farmington, reelected sergeant-at-arms; former Rep. Chris C. Cole of Crocker, doorkeeper; the Rev. Carl Radford of Auxvasse, reelected chaplain.

Speaker Graham announced Rep. David Rolwing of Charleston will be chairman of the Committee on Inaugural Arrangements; Rep. Patrick J. Hickey of St. Louis County will be chairman of the Committee on Rooms and Rep. William Fickle of Parkville will be chair-

W. B. RABOURN

Mississippi Manor Post For Rabourn

William B. Rabourn, former Sedalian, will head the administrative staff as resident manager of the Seashore Manor, new million dollar retirement home to open at Methodist Seashore Assembly Grounds, Biloxi, Miss. about the first of the year.

Rabourn, son of Mrs. Evelyn Rabourn, 1009 East Broadway, and Jesse H. Rabourn, 2412 Golf, grew up in Sedalia, and is a graduate of Smith-Cotton High School. He resides, with his family at 126 Beach Park, Long Beach, Miss., and has been business manager of Gulf Park College, Gulfport, Miss., in which capacity he has served for the past four years.

He has also held positions as public relations director of Central Missouri State College, director of dormitories at the same college, high school principal in Missouri and business education instructor in Dixon public schools.

His formal education consists of a BS in business education, MS in education for school administration, Carnegie scholarship for advanced study in business management and at present he is studying for a Doctor of Education degree at the University of Mississippi. He is a Methodist and he and his wife, Carol, have two children, Bill, Jr., and Sheri Lynn.

The Seashore Manor, a five-story 120-unit building, is nearing completion. The Methodist church first announced plans for the housing complex in 1961. Selection of the first personnel to be employed by the facility was by the 12-member board of trustees of the assembly, parent organization of the retirement home.

Rabourn's new position is effective Nov. 16.

Steal Benefit Tickets

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Police have a special interest in catching the thief who robbed James Reilly's apartment Friday.

Reilly, a traffic officer, said he took, among other things, 50 tickets to next month's police benefit show.

44 Firemen Hurt; Toys Destroyed

CHICAGO (AP) — Forty-four firemen were injured and an estimated million dollars worth of Christmas toys and goods devoured by flames Friday night and Saturday in a fire which raged out of control for 17 hours through a mammouth warehouse.

Most of the city's firemen and equipment were called out to battle the fire, which was declared struck out at 9:45 a.m.

Moments later, extra alarms were sounded for two other blazes at an empty warehouse and a railroad loading dock and the weary firemen were again called into action.

By noon Saturday, a fire department official said all three fires were under control and arson squads were on the scenes.

The latest outbreaks brought to five the number of major fires that have broken out on the South Side in November. The city has been plagued by a severe drought and less than one-half inch of rain has fallen in the past 45 days.

Fire officials originally estimated the damage to the long-burning warehouse at $2.5 million, but later revised the estimate to $1 million.

But Louis Goldblatt, president of Goldblatt Brothers department stores, which owned the warehouse, said the inventory stored there amounted to well over $2.5 million.

Re-Elect Mrs. Wilson

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Mrs. Margaret Bush Wilson, a St. Louis attorney, was elected to her third term as state president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People at the state conference of its Missouri branches Saturday.

Other officers elected were the Rev. William Pitts of Cape Girardeau, first vice president; Vincent Shields of Chillicothe, Opal Blankenship of Kansas City, secretary; Mrs. Helen Currin of Charleston, assistant secretary, and Mrs. Mary Ella Tymony of Kansas City, treasurer. Mrs. Currin and Mrs. Tymony were re-elected to their posts.

The two-day conference will end Sunday.

For Second Day

Syrian, Israeli Jets In Battle

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Syrian and Israeli jets battled Saturday north of the Sea of Galilee, a day after the heaviest border fighting between the two enemies in years. Each side accused the other of provoking the air clash, and each claimed victory.

Asyrian communique said Israeli planes flew across the border, "our air force intercepted the Israeli planes" and in a series of air battles an Israeli jet "was seen exploding in mid-air after receiving a direct hit. All our planes returned safely to bases."

In Tel Aviv, a military spokesman denied any Israeli plane was lost, said four Syrian Soviet-made MIG21s penetrated into Israel's air space, were driven off and one of them was hit.

The spokesman said the hit on the Syrian plane was clearly observed by the pilot who had engaged it but that it was not seen to crash. Reliable sources in Damascus said the battle was between the four MIGs and four Israeli French-made Mirage jets.

The air battle occurred in the area where Israeli and Syrian ground forces fought for an hour and 40 minutes Friday with tanks and artillery. This battle ended when unopposed Israeli planes crossed the frontier and pounded Syrian batteries with napalm and gunfire.

Even before Saturday's air clash, Syria moved to seek a U.N. Security Council meeting on the Friday fighting, and had broadcast this warning to Israel: "The Syrian army is poised to teach Israel severe lessons and will not stop any more at the limit of repelling aggression."

The ground fighting left seven Syrians dead and 26 wounded. Israel reported it had lost three killed and nine wounded.

A Foreign Ministry spokesman said Syria's U.N. delegate, Dr. Rafik Asha, had been instructed to explore prospects of calling a Security Council meeting to take up this serious Israeli aggression in which the air force was used."

Minister Counsels Prowler In House

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A prowler, who sat talking quietly with a minister who discovered the intruder in his home, was arrested Saturday after the minister's wife summoned police from an upstairs telephone.

Mrs. Walter Case was awakened by the prowler and she nudged her husband, who is pastor of Greeley Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Mr. Case then walked into a hallway and ecountered William D. Cheeks.

Because his four children were sleeping, the Rev. Mr. Case suggested the intruder accompany him downstairs. Cheeks was talking things over with the pastor when police arrived. He was vague about what he was doing in the Case house, which he had entered through an unlocked door.

At Children's Therapy Center

To Hold Open House Today

Open house at the Children's Therapy Center, at Bothwell Memorial Hospital, will be held from 1 to 5 o'clock this afternoon at which time people of the area may visit the Center, see the equipment used by the therapists, and meet members of the staff who will answer questions, explain equipment and talk about their work with the children to which they are all so dedicated.

Parents of the "patients" will be there, too, and mothers of the children will serve refreshments to the guests.

On the staff is J. D. Walker, director; Miss Janet Vavra, occupational therapist; Miss Lavern McNabb, physical therapist; Roger Garlich, speech therapist; Miss Suzanne Slanker, speech therapist; Mrs. Kenneth Cordry, pre-school teacher and her assistant, Mrs. Estelle Platter; Mrs. Lula Carson, teacher, and her assistant, Mrs. Lalia Whitley, and Mrs. Mary Kay Hunter is the registrar.

These children, so the therapists say, are just like any other children, they will try to get by with anything they can, and it takes the cooperation of their parents, too, not to spoil them by doing things for them that the children must do for themselves. For other children who are not handicapped the parents do many things for them but for the handicaps, it is important that they do things for themselves for to learn how, they need to become independent.

The way is slow and not a bit easy, but then it is hard to say whether the children or the staff are the most pleased at a triumph.

These are the people who will

Walks Into A Door

NEW YORK (AP) — Broderick Crawford, the actor who has built a reputation with tough guy roles, walked into a glass panel he said looked like a door at Kennedy Airport Saturday — and stayed in character.

Although he needed 11 stitches to mend cuts on his left leg and also suffered cuts on the back of his left hand, Crawford, 56, told newsmen:

"Don't worry about it, it didn't hurt a bit. I'm feeling fine. It's nothing. I just walked through a door which was not open."

Then he boarded a plane bound for Paris.

Miss Vavra told of the work being done at the Sheltered Workshop which is an extension of the Children's Therapy Center providing a realistic work situation for the mentally retarded and physically handicapped.

At the present time, she said, they are working on such things as filling shampoo bottles and making nylon pompons for brushing lint off clothes, for Adco, and preparing advertisement material for mailing. They are paid as any employees are paid for such work.

Miss Vavra said that it was hoped that some retired men and women in the community would be willing to give some of their time and knowledge in teaching some of the young people useful skills such as carpentry, typing, sewing, washing and ironing. Before these skills can be taught, she said, there is a need for an ironing board, iron, washing machine and other equipment.

The workshop, Miss Vavra said, has been open since last Nov. 15, and has made great strides but will continue to progress in the months to come. It is located at 1101 East Fifth.

At the business meeting a report of the Chamber Theatre presented by Dr. and Mrs. Breen, sponsored by the AAUW, was a success. Proceeds from this presentation will be used for the American Field Service program to develop friendship and understanding among people of the world through the student exchange program.

AAUW members of the Sedalia AFS committee reported that Dr. Arthur Howe, Jr., of Yale University faculty, has been elected president of the American Field Service program to fill the vacancy left by the death of Stephen Galatti who had headed the organization for 18 years.

The December meeting will be held at Flat Creek Inn, Dec. 7, and will be guest night. The Back Rights Act

WASHINGTON (AP) — Resolutions passed by the National Council of Catholic Women in a four-day convention urged support of the Civil Rights Act and called for a concerted effort to instill in youth respect for authority of parents, teachers and officials.

The council declared that the "dignity of the individual woman demands that the Catholic women exert their influence in the fashion world to overcome styles which offend modesty and jeopardize virtue."

Nun Group Gives Faith Samba Beat

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Brazil's latest popular music sensation is a group of young Roman Catholic nuns who give a message of faith to a samba beat.

These swinging sisters from the Brazilian order of Missionary Sisters of Jesus Crucified presently are sweeping the nation with lively songs composed by a member of their order and sung by a 14-voice chorus from the order's convent in Rio. The chorus is backed up by a six-piece combo.

The sisters were discovered a year ago by the Rev. Joao Bedochi, well-known in the Brazilian music world for his boys' choir, the "Little Singers of Guanabara."

Father Bedochi heard the sisters singing while he was visiting their convent. Impressed, he investigated further and learned that the music was composed by Sister Irene Gomes of the Campinas Convent in Sao Paulo State.

Putting across a message of Christian charity and love to the popular rhythms of the day would be perfectly in accord with the order's goal to work "with one foot in the world and the other in the convent."

Father Bedochi won special permission from Church authorities for the nuns to sing "profane" music in public. Since then they have become one of the most popular guest groups on local television.

A few weeks ago their first record was launched. Rio record shops reported it was one of the fastest moving discs.

The Missionary Sisters is a Brazilian order formed in 1928 by Sister Maria Vilaque, today mother superior of the order.

The sisters work in prisons, slums and schools.

To keep the order going financially, the sisters furnish box lunches for some Brazilian airlines, and make and sell candy.

The convent is located on a hillside overlooking Rio. Below is the famous Sugar Loaf Mountain and above them is the equally famous Corcovado with its statue of Christ the Redeemer.

The sisters had been singing for some time under the direction of Sister Maria Duto, music teacher for the order's novitiate.

The combo is composed of two guitars, an accordian, a triangle, a xylophone and a "cabaca," a rhythm instrument made from a gourd ringed with multi-colored beads.

Lao Troops Defect In Large Numbers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Reporting a favorable turn in the low-level war in Laos, U.S. officials say that more than 500 Communist Pathet Lao troops have defected to neutralist government forces.

Daily strikes of American-supplied T28 planes flown by the Royal Laos Air Force were credited with the upturn in the Laotian government's cause.

Sporadic air attacks in the early summer against Pathet Lao troop concentrations and road junctions have been stepped up within the past month.

Branson Blast Injures 18 Persons Friday

BRANSON, Mo. (AP) — Four bulk gasoline tanks belonging to the Standard Oil Co. exploded Friday injuring 18 persons and destroying five buildings.

Fire destroyed the Standard Oil building, two Missouri Farmers Association storage buildings, the Holman Gas Co., and the Wolfe Motor Co., a parts firm. One MFA building was full of hay.

Firemen brought the flames under control after a three-hour fight.

Harold Plott, who was pumping gasoline from a truck, said he thought the fire was started by a short-circuit in the pumping station.

Ten of the injured required hospitalization, but none were believed to be serious.

It was first feared that other storage tanks belonging to the Union, Shell, Phillips and Sinclair oil companies also would explode, but fire fighters managed to keep the flames from reaching them.

The Standard tanks are one block east of the main intersection in Branson, a southwest Missouri resort town of about 1,800. There was no estimate on the loss.

London Now Needs Plan For Space

It was for a capital of wide, tree-lined boulevards with plenty of space to double-park the coach and four, and room to swing your walking stick as you strolled in the sun.

They never listened to Sir Christopher. His plan was scrapped. London just went ahead and grew.

Now a plan is emerging that may help save the city from being choked to death.

The boom in office skyscrapers that has radically changed the face of old London is collapsing. The government has imposed a ban on building more office space. This applies throughout the crowded capital and stretching for 40 miles on every side. Both private and public construction is affected.

Some of the new skyscrapers overshadow castles and cathedrals that were the city's greatest architectural heritage.

But the building freeze announced by Economics Minister George Brown has little to do with sentiment about saving architectural vistas.

It was three major purposes:

To relieve the strain on London's public transport system and highways.

To encourage office builders to take their business to industrially neglected areas.

To make more land available for houses.

The old Conservative government tried to encourage businessmen to take their trade into the less-crowded provinces, but there was no compulsion. Only a few made the move. There is prestige attached to having an office in London — it sounds better than, say, Wigan or Cleethropes.

Now only in very special circumstances will office building be allowed in London. Buildings already under construction will be finished. Drawing - board plans—grand ideas for new tall towers—all must be scrapped.

Churches Blueprint For Unification Lacks Implementation

TORONTO, Ont. (AP) — A blueprint for uniting Canada's two largest Protestant churches into the Church of Canada has been completed, but leaders of both said realization is still years away.

The plan for uniting the Anglican and United Churches of Canada into a communion of nearly four million persons was three years in preparation. Talks on church union first started in 1943.

Under the proposed union, baptism and the Lord's Supper would be the only two sacraments recognized. Five lesser sacraments traditionally recognized by the Anglicans — marriage, ordination, anointing the sick, penance and confirmation — would be dropped.

Further Tax Cut Proposal Seen As Spur to Economy

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The possibility of further tax cuts was held out this week as a spur to the economy in 1965.

President Johnson said he would ask that excise taxes producing $550 million a year be repealed. The proposed tax cut may go even deeper.

The taxes that he wants to wipe out are those paid by consumers when they purchase cosmetics, toiletries, jewelry, furs, luggage and pocketbooks.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon, announcing the plan, said the program definitely will include repeal of the $550 million a year in consumer excises "as well as action on a number, a good number, of other excise taxes."

Dillon said these additional cuts might involve taxes levied at the manufacturing level but passed on to consumers.

They cover such items as radio and television sets, phonographs, home appliances, musical instruments, cameras and photographic equipment, ball point pens and lighters.

Dillon said over-all cuts would be held under $4 billion. The various excise taxes produce about $15 billion a year.

The extent of the cuts will depend in part on the state of the economy next year.

The taxes at the retail level have been in effect since the Korean war or longer.

On another front, General Motors Corp. and the United Auto Workers cleaned up their disputes at all local plants and signed a national three-year contract.

The action put GM back into full swing in car production, which had been halted for a month by a general strike and another month by local work stoppages. It was estimated that the strike cost GM the production of 400,000 cars.

Ford, which earlier reached a national agreement with the union, encountered trouble at the local level. The UAW struck five parts plants and four assembly plants employing 25,000 of the company's 160,000 hourly workers.

This cut Ford's car production. If the strikes continue, all of Ford's operations would be shut down because of parts shortages.

Ford shut down its Lorain, Ohio, plant because parts were exhausted. It furloughed some workers at other plants.

UAW strikes spread to companies other than the big automakers. They closed White Motor Co. and Mack Trucks, Inc. Allis-Chalmers Mfg. Co., manufacturer of industrial and farm machinery, also was hit.

Meanwhile, with GM back in full production, auto output for this week recovered and was estimated at 175,900 cars, up 13 per cent from 154,930 built last week and just short of the 176,923 a year ago. GM scheduled 94,358 car assemblies, compared with 60,484 last week. However, Ford's production was down 23 per cent from last week to 36,449 cars.

Elsewhere on the labor scene the Association of Western Pulp & Paper Workers called a strike against 48 West Coast pulp and paper plants.

Steel production dipped last week for the first time in five weeks. Output totaled 2,634,000 tons, compared with 2,644,000 the previous week.

For the year, production amounted to 107,445,000 tons against 94,960,000 last year, a gain of 13.1 per cent.

The University of Michigan Research SurveyiCenter reported that a substantial demand for goods by consumers should give the economy a boost during the Christmas season and again next spring. The center said it found Americans optimistic about the economy.

The Commerce Department estimated that retail sales declined 3 per cent in October, primarily because of a drop in sales of automobiles.

The Federal Reserve Board said consumer installment credit increased $513 million in September, the highest since March. The August increase was $435 million.

Price increases were announced for automobile batteries, printing paper used in magazines and catalogues, paint and copper.

FRIEND OF 4-H AWARD — Mrs. Ted Dabner, Chairman of the Pettis County Youth Advisory Committee, presents the "Friend of 4-H" Award to the Central Missouri Electric Co-op. Shown above to receive the award in behalf of the Central Missouri Electric Co-op is Ed Walters, Power Use Advisor. One or more awards is given to individuals or businesses that have made outstanding contributions to the 4-H program.

A BRUSH FOR EVERY PURPOSE

Wants Comeback In 1966

Nixon Says GOP Needs Moderates And Liberals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard M. Nixon, preaching Republican unity and urging the GOP to follow a center course, says Sen. Barry Goldwater's future as the party's titular leader may depend on how well he meets the challenge of unity over the next two years.

Calling his recent verbal assault on New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller "a closed book," Nixon said Friday that "The party is bigger than Rockefeller, and it is bigger than Goldwater, but it is big enough for both."

But Friday, as he talked with newsmen at New York's Kennedy Airport before going to Japan on a business trip, Nixon stressed a need for the GOP to include moderates and liberals as it prepares for the 1966 congressional elections.

As for his own role, Nixon waved aside question on whether he would be "available as a candidate" for president in 1968 by stating:

"I am not available for any position I can see."

As for the possibility that he may be a suitable "compromise choice" as Republican national chairman to unite the warring wings of the GOP, the former vice president and 1960 GOP presidential candidate, said: "I have no presumption to be a leader without portfolio."

At a news conference in San Francisco, Nixon said Republicans should begin reshaping their fortunes next January.

"We must make a comeback in 1966," he said, adding that Republicans should "close the book" on the 1964 presidential election defeat, restore party unity for the 1966 congressional elections and "avoid any speculation about 1968."

One of Goldwater's staunchest backers, Texas Republican Sen. John G. Tower, said those who want to oust National Chairman Dean Burch — hand-picked by Goldwater last summer to head the Republican National Committee — are putting "heat. . . on the wrong man."

Republicans who didn't support Goldwater's candidacy, Tower said, "are on weak grounds when they try to assess the blame" for last week's overwhelming Republican defeat.

Tower insisted Goldwater's margin of defeat would have been smaller if the Republicans who stayed neutral or hostile to his candidacy had lent their prestige and effort to eliminate what he termed the "false impression" that Goldwater is a "trigger happy ogre with no feeling for social problems."

He said Burch's job was to organize the campaign and raise funds and that this was "well carried out."

And, Tower said, "this is not the time to yell for scalps."

Asked specifically if he thought Burch should remain as GOP national chairman, Tower said: "I don't think we should try and decide who should be national chairman at this time. We should take a calm analytical look at the results of the election."

There were these other developments on the political scene:

In San Francisco, Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown and GOP Sen.-elect George Murphy agreed to work closely in trying to resolve California's problems. Brown said although he and Murphy are "far apart in political philosophy," on "the bread and butter issues affecting the state, I'm sure we'll stand together."

SOROSIS SPEAKER — Dr. James E. Hart, professor of education at the University of Missouri, Columbia, will be the speaker at Sorosis Monday afternoon at 2 p. m. at Heard Memorial Club House. He will take for his subject: "Your Schools and Mine." Dr. Hart will be introduced by Mrs. Mary Studer, history and literature department chairman.

World News Glimpses

BERLIN (AP) — West Berlin officials fear that East Germany won't reopen the Berlin wall at Christmas to let West Berliners visit relatives in the Communist sector of the divided city.

Red border guards closed the wall on schedule at midnight after a 14-day visiting period expired. It was the first of four periods within a year authorized by an agreement between the East German Communist regime and the West Berlin government. Nearly 600,000 West Berliners visited the East during the past two weeks.

The next visiting period is scheduled to run from Dec. 19 through Jan. 3. Thursday the Communists made a veiled threat to call off the Christmas visits unless West Berlin banks and exchange offices quit selling East German marks below the official rate.

ROME (AP) — Owners of Rome's bars, restaurants and shops called off a citywide business shutdown next week to protest high operating costs after the government extended rent control for a year.

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Congolese rebel leaders in Stanleyville have assured Prime Minister Jomo Kenyatta of Kenya that foreign civilians there including 60 Americans, are in no danger.

Kenyatta said he received the assurance in reply to an appeal he made to the Stanleyville rebels that they not mistreat the nearly 900 foreigners in rebel territory.

● Fires In City

Relatively little damage occurred from several alarms answered by the Sedalia Fire Department Saturday. Burning trash was instrumental in causing several of the blazes.

Firemen extinguished grass fires at 8:38 a.m. at 2201 New York, the Ted Phillips residence, and at 4:10 p.m. at the Sedalia Memorial Airport. The airport fire possibly originated from a cigarette.

Burning trash set fire to a brush pile at the Rozezine Gray residence, 305 East Cooper, at 2:42 p.m.

Firemen were summoned to the Martha Zuck residence, 1107 South Moniteau, at 12:47 p.m., but found the fire out on arrival. Reports indicated that burning trash had set fire to a picket fence.

Gasoline overflowing from a tank on a truck was washed from the parking lot at Bing's at 11th and Limit at 11:35 a.m.

● Accidents

Mrs. Doris Finley, 34, Southern Hills, was severely injured about 10:20 o'clock Friday night in a one-vehicle accident at the junction of Morgan County CC and State Route 135. Her husband, W. F. "Bill" Finley, 33, driver of the car received a minor laceration under the left eye, while their daughters Judy, seven, a bruised right cheek, and ten-year-old Cathy escaped injury.

Mr. Finley reported he was driving south on Morgan County Highway CC, and missed the stop sign while talking, crossed 135 and crashed into a ditch on the east side of the highway. He credited seat belts as saving all four from more serious injuries.

Mrs. Finley was thrown forward and her face apparently struck the dash causing a fracture on each side of the lower jaw, and bruises. A passing motorist stopped and drove Mrs. Finley and the two girls to the home of Bill Wilson in Southern Hills who in turn took them to the Bothwell Hospital.

Dr. Stanley Fisher treated them at the hospital, and had X-rays taken of Mrs. Finley and Judy. Mrs. Finley was admitted to the hospital.

The 1963 Rambler station wagon in which they were riding was extensively damaged. The car was towed to Stover.

Sixteenth and Limit was the scene of a car-truck collision at 10:25 p.m. Saturday.

Involved were a 1964 Volkswagen, driven east on 16th and preparing to negotiate a right turn by Edward G. Kehde, Jr., 46, 2201 West Third, and a 1964 Chevrolet panel truck, driven east on 16th by Ray K. Dietzman, 46, 706 South Kentucky.

The left rear of the Kehde car was damaged.

The swift action of Airman 1C Ernest McFeder probably saved the life of Mrs. Naomi Snorgrass, 601 West Pettis, recently when she fell backwards into a lake where she and three other women had gone fishing.

Airman McFeder drove up just as Mrs. Snorgrass lost her balance and fell in the lake. He immediately dived in after her and brought her safely to shore.

It was on Monday, Nov. 9, and with her at the lake were Mrs. Clarence Flewellen, Mrs. Elmore and Mrs. Fannie Johnson, grandmother of Airman McFeder. The young man with his family are visiting his mother-in-law, Mrs. Beatrice Roberson and other relatives in Sedalia.

Police investigated a two-car accident that occurred on a private parking lot in the 3100 block of West Broadway at 7:25 p. m. Saturday.

According to the investigation the vehicles involved were a 1963 Mercury, driven east by Carl William Heuerman, 48, Route 1, and a 1962 Rambler, driven east on the lot by Elizabeth Ann Murrell, 17, 1408 State Fair Blvd.

● Police Reports

Vandals reportedly broke the left door glass and cracked the windshield of a car belonging to John Hicks, 119 South Stewart, while parked in the 3300 block on South Limit. The incident occurred Friday night and was reported to Sedalia police Saturday.

A pair of gold and black glasses were found near Ninth and Harrison by Miss Libby Cain, 805 West Broadway, Saturday. Miss Cain reported to police that she found the glasses and stated that the owner could claim them at her home.

● Area Fires

The Pettis County fire department made a run at 12:30 p.m. Saturday to 32nd and Ingram, where a grass fire was burning along Ingram south of 32nd.

One line of hose from the truck extinguished the fire which caused no damage. The cause was not known.

Graham said he was not ready to announce the new chairman of the Appropriations Committee, a job vacated when former Rep. Paul M. Berra of St. Louis was elected to the Senate succeeding the late Sen. William E. Hilsman.

Until an appointment is made, Graham said Rep. Bernard (Doc) Sincoe of Fulton, vice chairman last session, will conduct new members on the usual pre-session tour of state institution.

Senate Democrats organized a week ago, electing Sen. John W. Joynt of St. Louis, president pro tem, the man who appoints the committeess, and Sen. William W. Waters of Liberty as majority floor leader.

Opinions Are Divided On Dean Burch

WASHINGTON (AP) — Among Republican National Committee members willing to take a stand, opinion is almost evenly divided on whether Dean Burch should in effect be ousted as party chairman.

But a much larger number of members won't say how they'll vote if the matter is brought up at a proposed committee meeting, probably in January.

Burch was quoted this week as saying he would be unable to continue as chairman if the committee should adopt a no-confidence motion.

None of the committee members responding to an Associated Press survey would say he'll sponsor such a motion, but several said they expect one will be made.

With almost three-fourths of the 132 committee members replying, this was how they stood on a possible non-confidence motion:

Thirteen said they would vote for it and 14 said they would vote against it; 70 members were noncommittal, among whom 12 had strong praise for Burch and 9 were critical of him.

Several members, ill or on vacation trips, could not be reached. At least two of them previously had publicly called for Burch's resignation.

Burch was installed last July at the request of Sen. Barry Goldwater, the GOP presidential nominee. His term as chairman was for four years, and even those committee members who oppose him said they doubt that he could be ousted by a direct vote as opposed to a motion of no confidence.

At least one, William Powers of Colorado, implied a vote might not be necessary. "Mr. Burch is a good Republican and he should be able to determine for himself whether or not he has the confidence of the group," Powers said.

In a dispatch from Jamaica, where Goldwater and Burch have been vacationing, the New York Times said Saturday that the GOP leaders will fight back if necessary to hold the leadership of the party.

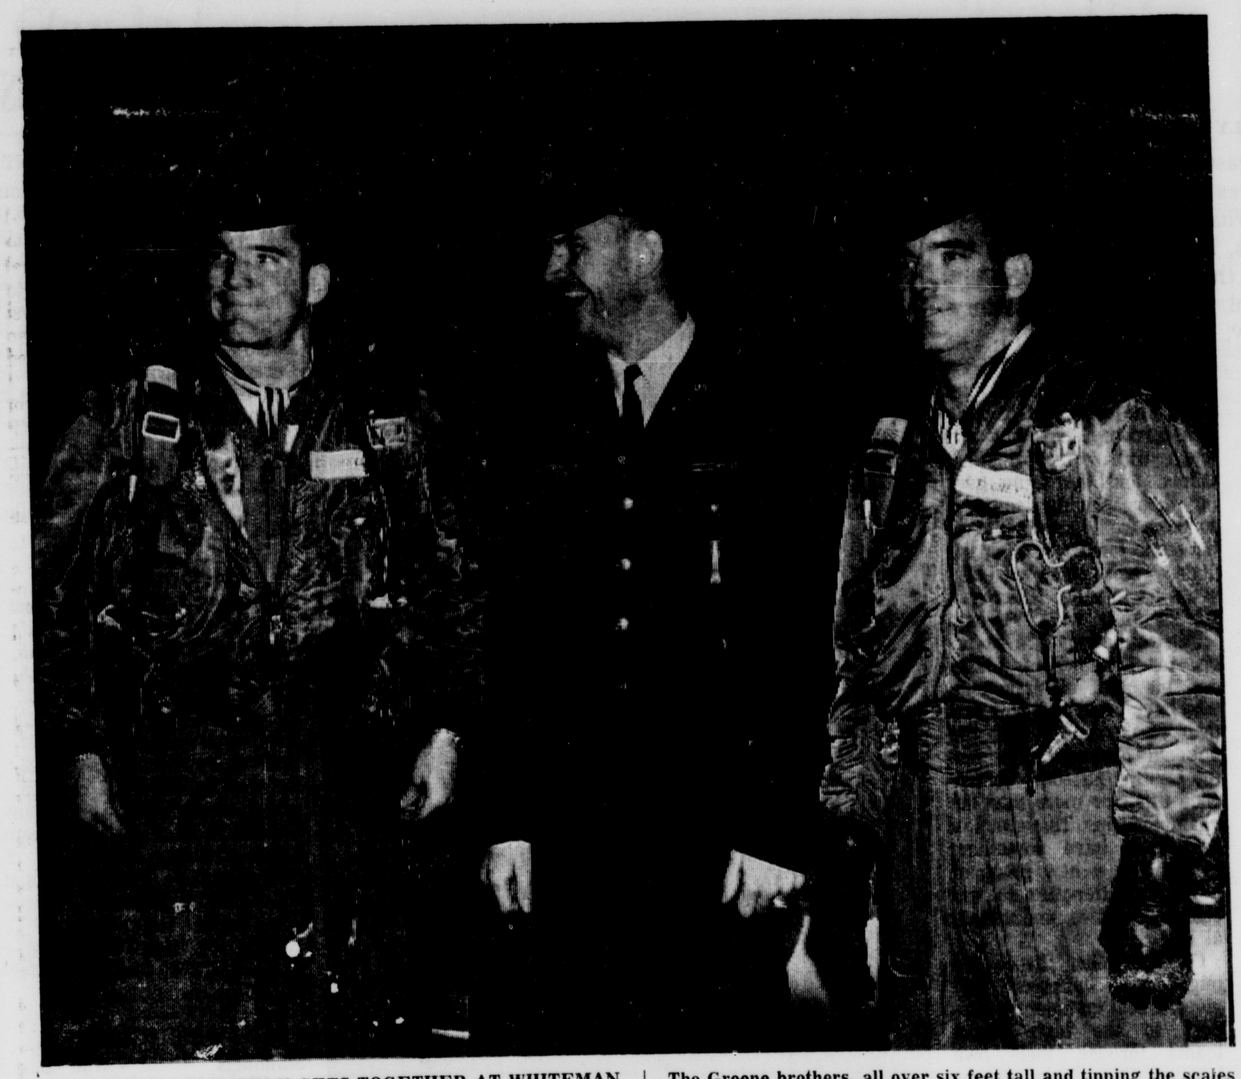
AMBULANCE SERVICE - DIAL TA. 6-8000



AN AEROSPACE FAMILY GETS TOGETHER AT WHITEMAN AFB WHEN Capt. LeRoy V. Greene Jr., Minuteman Missile Combat Crew Commander, 510th Strategic Missile Squadron, 351st SM Wing, greets his flying twin brothers, 2nd Lt. Bruce B. Greene (left) and 2nd Lt. Duff S. Greene (right) who are primary flying students at Reese AFB, Lubbock, Tex. Captain Greene conducted his airborne brothers on a tour of the underground missile capsule where he is a combat crew commander.

The Greene brothers, all over six feet tall and tipping the scales past 200 pounds, are sons of Col. LeRoy V. Greene (USAR Ret.) and Mrs. Greene, Wynnewood, Pa. Captain Greene's in-laws are Maj. James B. Knapp, director of personnel, Strategic Air Command Headquarters, and Mrs. Knapp. The captain is a graduate of West Point, class of 1959 and the lieutenants were distinguished military graduates of the ROTC program at the University of North Carolina.

Twin Brother Pilots Visit MCCC Brother

By Eileen Marsh

The whistling sound of two "tweetie birds," T-37's, signaled to Capt. LeRoy V. Greene Jr. that his twin brothers, 2nd Lt. Bruce B. Greene and 2nd Lt. Duff S. Greene were on the final approach to Whiteman AFB.

"Man, would he show those airborne jockeys that underground missile capsule he had talked so much about," he laughed. On this visit he had arranged for a tour of his brothers and their flying instructors, Capt. James M. Woner and 1st Lt. Charles J. Siegel, through the site.

But he admitted to himself that beneath all their light hearted joshing, the brothers recognized that they represented both sides of the aerospace concept, aircraft and missiles, and it was serious business.

The Greene brothers, all over six feet tall and tipping the scales past 200 pounds, are sons of Col. LeRoy V. Greene (USAR Ret.) and Mrs. Greene, Wynnewood, Pa. Captain Greene's wife's parents are Maj. Gen. James B. Knapp, director of personnel, Strategic Air Command Headquarters, and Mrs. Knapp.

Captain Greene is a graduate of West Point, class of 1959 where he participated in football (including the last defeat of Navy as one of his games), track and shot putting. He was a three letter man in high school, president of his senior class and literary editor of the year book.

On his own time, Captain Greene acts as assistant coach to the Knob Noster High School football team. His wife, Gail, is a graduate of the College of St. Mary, Omaha, and was president of the student body there. The couple has three children, Stacey, Scott and Jennifer.

Captain Greene was recently awarded the first senior Missileman badge in the 351st Strategic Missile Wing, signifying three years of meritorious service on a combat ready missile crew. His missile background includes experience with the Atlas D at Offutt AFB as well as the Minuteman Intercontinental Ballistic Missile.

His brothers, 24 years old, have been in the Air Force almost two years. They won first and second honors at the ROTC encampment at Eglin, Fla., competing against hundreds of men from 82 universities and colleges. Both men are married. They are assigned to the Air Training Command.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara plans to reveal Monday the design he has approved for a permanent memorial grave at Arlington National Cemetery for the late President John F. Kennedy.

McNamara announced Thursday he had approved the design by architect John E. Warnecke. He said it has also been approved by Kennedy's widow, the Kennedy family, government authorities concerned with the design, the Commission of Fine Arts and the chairman of the National Capital Planning Commission.

Kennedy's grave on a slope at Arlington has been without a permanent marker since his burial last Nov. 25. The Army, which runs the cemetery, put a wooden fence and temporary walkways around the grave and its eternal flame.

So far millions have visited Kennedy's grave.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Civil Aeronautics Board investigators are looking into the sudden, violent descent Tuesday night of a jet airliner carrying 100 persons from Honolulu to Los Angeles.

The incident occurred some 200 miles southwest of Los Angeles as the Pan American World Airways plane prepared to descend. The Boeing 707 shifted suddenly at 37,000 feet, started to drop swiftly and then leveled off a few seconds later after having dropped to 25,500 feet.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge has thrown out of court a lawsuit in which the National Education Association sought to force the Defense Department to pay higher salaries to the 7,000 teachers in its overseas schools.

U.S. Dist. Judge George L. Jart Jr. gave no reason for dismissing the suit but indicated the case might have better been taken to Congress.

HST Raps MacArthur On TV Show

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman has renewed his conflict with the late Gen. Douglas MacArthur who, he says, "thought he was greater than the President of the United States."

Truman dismissed MacArthur as Far East commander in 1951 during the Korean War after accusing him of insubordination.

In a taped interview shown over some 50 television stations Friday night, Truman fired off some sharply critical comments about the general, who died in April at the age of 84.

The 80 - year - old Truman called MacArthur an egotist, contending that the general's occupation rule in Japan after the war brought it out.

"He seemed to have the notion that without him the whole country would collapse," Truman said.

He related the disagreements he had with MacArthur over tactics in Korea and said he came close to firing him on two occasions.

Truman said he was anxious to discuss matters with MacArthur and the two finally met at Wake Island.

"And when he came there, some of the boys said he didn't even salute me," Truman said. "I didn't give a damn whether he saluted me or not. What I was interested in was to get him in a position where I could talk to him."

After a full discussion of the Korean War, Truman said, MacArthur assured him "in no uncertain terms, that Red China would not come into Korea."

"And I went home feeling very, very good about the situation," Truman said, adding that he made a speech in San Francisco commending MacArthur.

"I told the American people and the world that the thing was in control in the Far East and that I didn't think the Chinese were coming into Korea. And then, you know what happened."

In his memoirs, published shortly before his death, MacArthur said he did not tell Truman Red China would stay out of the war. "This is a prevarication," MacArthur wrote in reply to Truman's earlier assertions on the Wake Island meeting.

In his book, MacArthur said "artificial restrictions" had been placed on his conduct of the Korean War, preventing victory.

Truman said he and MacArthur came to grips over pursiut of Chinese planes north of the Yalu River.

On this point, Truman said: "When MacArthur faced up to me and told me that he wanted to fight an all-out war in the Far East, I told him it couldnt' be done...I had to watch the whole world and be sure that the free world was not invaded by the Russians in an endeavor to make the whole world Communist."

He said that when MacArthur sent a telegram of "congratulations to the commander of the American Legion, urging that bombs be dropped in Manchuria," that was the last straw.

"That really burned me up," Truman said. "This was a flat challenge to the authority of the President of the United States. I had to make a decision on what to do about a general who had been insubordinate."

Laser Beam Tracking

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first successful tracking of a satellite by a laser beam — a concentrated ray of light — was reported Friday by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The agency said scientists hit the satellite, Explorer 22, with laser beams at least 10 times in the past month and are optimistic about future possible use of light beams in space work.

Tigers, Sooners In 14-14 Big Eight Tie

87-Yard Drive For Mizzou In Fourth Ties The Score

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Missouri drove 87 yards for a fourth quarter touchdown Saturday that gave the Tigers a 14-14 tie with the Oklahoma Sooners which eliminated both teams from the Big Eight Conference title race.

The Missouri touchdown came with 3:45 left to play. Missouri Coach Dan Devine elected to go for a tieing conversion kick rather than a possible win with a two-point conversion. Kicking specialist Bill Bates split the uprights.

The Sooners got another chance with 1:17 left when Rick McCurdy recovered a fumble on the Missouri 42-yard line. The Sooners gained to the 22 but Butch Metcalf's 39-yard goal attempt with 13 seconds left was low and wide.

Missouri scored first on Charlie Brown's nine-yard run in the first quarter after Bill Powell recovered a loose Sooner handoff.

Oklahoma came right back with a 75-yard 10-play scoring drive. Quarterback Bobby Page hit Gordon Brown with a 30-yard pass for the counter.

Oklahoma went ahead in the third quarter on halfback Tom Pannell's 35-yard touchdown pass to Ben Hart.

Oklahoma gave up an almost certain touchdown in the second quarter when fullback Jim Girsham fumbled and Missouri's Bob Ritter recovered on the Tiger 3-yard line.

SH Gremlins Drop Contest In Tourney

The Sacred Heart Gremlins dropped another game in the PBCAA tournament at Cole Camp Friday night, going down in defeat to the Smithton Tigers, 44-41. The loss put the Gremlins out of tourney play.

The first and second quarters moved slowly for both teams, the Gremlins leading in the first and the Tigers coming back in the second to tie the score at the half.

In the third stanza, the Tigers pulled ahead by two points which they managed to hold. In the last two minutes of this period Smithton added another two points to their advantage.

Opening the fourth quarter, Sacred Heart immediately scored a basket and a free throw, then another basket. The Tigers scored, then the Gremlins in quick succession, both teams battling with all their might. With four minutes left the Tigers held a tight five-point edge. Sacred Heart held off the scoring attack, while scoring two times themselves in the last few minutes, but their efforts were halted as the Tigers bounced three in in the last minute of play.

Run Kruse led the scoring attack for the locals with 14 markers. High for Smithton was Turner with 12.

In girls volleyball action, the Gremlins brought home the consolation trophy, downing the Warsaw girl Wildcats, 35-10.

Kirksville, undefeated in conference play, rushed 259 yards and gained 149 through the air. Warrensburg rushed for 177 yards and lost five in its passing game.

Sports Scraps

By D. KELLY SCRUTON

HIGH school football season has practically ended. It finished for 1964 as far as the Smith-Cotton Tigers are concerned. What a dramatic ending it came to for the Sedalians, in a game which will be imbedded in the minds of those interested in the Tigers the rest of the school year — a 33-13 victory over Springfield Parkview, last Thursday night.

I might point out Coach Dick Rees and his crew of coaches were a happy group, not failing to mention the entire Tiger varsity squad as the season drew to a close with this big win. "This game is the one we actually have to live with the rest of the year," was the remark of Coach Rees, "and I assure you we of the coaching staff were really proud of the boys in the final game of the season. It goes without saying we would have enjoyed a few more wins especially in the Central Missouri Conference, but these last three games, two which we won, one which went into a tie, prove a point from which the 1965 crew of Tigers can take for a benefit. It is when you put your mind to practice and playing, a winning team can come from the results."

True there will be 12 seniors graduating this next spring, the prospects for 1965 look far better than the opening of the past season. There are 24 boys who were listed on the varsity this year, a majority who saw considerable action through the season this year, which will form the nucleus for the 1965 team.

You look them over, and check their names, you'll find a right nice crop of football players, which will be added to by a good crop coming up from the freshman class. Those on the varsity this season are Russ Cusick, quarterback; Dan Strombom, Jim Arnest, and Mike McEver, halfbacks; Steve Long, Butch Rozier, and Larry Scantlin, ends; Fred Kelley, and Jim Lewellen, tackles; Doug Crank, Larry Myers, Mike Wells, and Joe Lamy, guards; and Bill Herrick who switched from guard, to tackle and to halfback, who are all juniors.

The Tigers apparently will get a welcome lift in a newcomer to Sedalia, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Munson. The family moved to Sedalia from Jefferson City, and the son was a star freshman quarterback for the young Jefferson City Jays team. As a sophomore he most certainly will be a help in building the 1965 Tiger team, inasmuch as Coach Rees will be using the sophomore as well as seniors in building his club.

We predict already this year that 1965 will be the real turning point for the Tigers and Sedalia fans will see a goodly number of victories. If the material comes along at the first of the season as it did the last of this season, then Coach Rees and his crew of assistants will get their just reward in wins.

THE Jefferson City Jays, Friday night, broke their own undefeated record and moved to 57 straight games won which is a recognized national record. They broke the old record of 55 last week when they defeated Springfield Central 30-0, and last Friday night took Springfield Hillcrest 41-6.

This past weekend has been rough on the Springfield aggregations, with the Tigers having moved in last Thursday night to romp in Springfield Parkview 33-13.

During the game down south when the Tigers were playing the Vikings, a radio announcer remarked near the end of the game, "those Central Missouri teams, may be on the losing end in their own territory, but they are tough with our Springfield teams, and the same goes for their winning teams. I suppose we'll have some of the same tomorrow (Friday) night when Jefferson City visits us to meet Hillcrest." He certainly wasn't wrong.

Congratulations are in order for Coach Pete Adkins and his staff of assistants, who have brought a now and then winner up to take the national championships and the Central Missouri Conference title, for more than six championships. This group of gentlemen have something to instill in a new group of boys year-after-year to win conference titles, and national honors.

On the other hand, we might say, Jefferson City gives a real community support to the high school teams through their own Booster Club. They inspire the boys to do their best, to listen and work along with what their coaches have to give.

Then too, the boys Jefferson City is producing are to be commended for their fine athletic spirit, and excellent attitude on the field of football. It is also my understanding the football team has a very good scholastic record.

But don't think the Smith-Cotton Tigers are not beginning to build. Under Coach Dick Rees, I am sure they will come along and be one of the outstanding teams in the not too distant future.

THIS is something new of these late years and has no connection with the Booster Club for Sedalia athletics, but it has something to do for physical fitness among some of the paunchy elders of Sedalia. It is the forming of an athletic club, such as was discussed and in the making a couple of years ago, but fell to the wayside when plans to buy the Salvation Army building fell through.

Some of these 15 men have already started renewing the idea, but this time it's a natural if it can be carried out. The plan under discussion is to form the Athletic Club of Sedalia and it has been suggested to take over the seventh floor of the Bothwell Hotel for the activities.

I toured the seventh floor recently and remarked what a deal if the rooms on the south side and along the north could be removed without too much trouble for a large room where various athletic equipment could be installed, handball, and such —it's too low for basketball as to the ceilings — but handball could easily be worked in, cycling machines, punching bags, muscle building machines. Then making the turn down the hall to the north a club room could be established, steam baths in some and a massage room and all that which goes for a real athletic club.

It's all possible, because of the construction of the hotel building, these room walls could be removed without weakening the roof. It could be fashioned after these athletic clubs in the cities. Sedalia is large enough to support the program.

From what I have heard there is a possibility the Bothwell Hotel group may be in for some expansion, and it is likely a swimming pool will be included in those plans for the hotel guests. I'm sure the athletic club members would be permitted to use this also.

What a dream — but it's all possible.

NINETY POUND DOE — Dr. J. W. Bryden, 520 West Broadway, bagged this 90-pound doe just 15 minutes after season opened Friday morning. Virgil Norris, Route 3, reported bringing home a four-point buck from Benton County that dressed out at 118 pounds. His kill was made at about 7:30 a.m.

Myers Has Work Cut Out For Him In Headliner

Sonny Myers will have his work cut out for him when he headlines a professional wrestling show at Convention Hall Tuesday night.

The stylish Missouri battler will try his skills against the roughing efforts of Indian Joe, a crafty, veteran ring warrior who cut his ring teeth on bruising tactics.

The two will meet over the best of three-falls distance in the feature of a four-event, Legion-sponsored program.

For the first time this season a midget tag team clash will be presented. Veterans Tiny Tim and Sky Low Low will match their wizardry against the offerings of the Jamaica Kid and Farmer Pete.

Always colorful, the tiny fellows rival the heavyweights in everything but size. They wrestle just as hard, often are a step faster and use the same holds with equal ability.

The show will also mark an appearance by Ron Reed, a classy 228-pound newcomer who is bidding for recognition in this section. Reed will face a solid test when he goes against Jim Sixsay, a roughing exponent who also hopes to break the contender's ranks.

The opening event will bring together the Jamaica Kid and Tiny Tim.

Myers, who has parlayed the Japanese sleeper and solid wrestling into a winning formula figures to have his hands full against Indian Joe. A brawler who likes to have things his own way, probably will give the Missourian a hard time from first bell to last.

Johnny Adams Elected To Hall Of Fame

BALTIMORE (AP) — Johnny Adams, the eighth leading winner on the all-time list of jockeys, has been elected to the National Jockey Hall of Fame at Pimlico Race Course.

Louis Pondfield, chairman of the Hall of Fame, announced Saturday that Adams posted a 2-to-1 vote superiority over his nearest rival in nationwide balloting by sportswriters, broadcasters, trainers and turf authorities.

Adams, a three time national riding champion—1937, 1942 and 1943—was runner-up in the voting last year to Bill Hartack. He was nominated again this year along with Jack Westrope, Lavelle Buddy Ensor, Charlie Kurtsinger and Clarence Kummer.

A native of Iola, Kans., Adams notched the first winner of his 24-year riding career at Riverside Park in Kansas City, in May, 1934. He won 3,270 races and $9,741,889 in purses before retiring in 1958. At Bay Meadows on April 7, 1838, Adams rode six winners in seven tries, and he had 6-for-8 at Thistledown on Sept. 2, 1942.

Deer Hunters Successful In Nearby Park

Deer hunters in the vicinity of Knob Noster State Park have been more successful this year than last, according to reports. On Friday, the first day of the season, there were 58 deer killed in the park area. This compares with only 35 last year.

Saturday's kill totaled only 22, typical of the second day. This was still an increase over the 15 killed last year.

No accidents have been reported.

The largest deer reported shot in the area was downed by Leroy Young, Sedalia. It weighed 186 pounds. The check station for deer huners is located at the east entrance to the park.

There were 173 participants and 23 college teams.

Clay In Good Shape After Operation

BOSTON (AP) — Cassius Clay was in excellent shape and resting quietly in a hospital Saturday after an operation for a hernia forced postponement of his schedule heavyweight title defense Monday against ex-champ Sonny Liston.

With the champ out of action for six or seven months, the promoters planned vaguely for a new date in Boston next April or May. They estimated they lost $75,000 and the closed TV circuit sponsors figured their red ink "bath" at between $100,000 and $400,000.

Liston, who lost the most of all—a chance to win back the title he lost last Feb. 25 when he sat in his corner at Miami Beach with an injured left shoulder—arranged to return to Denver almost immediately.

"I feel very bad," said Liston at a news conference. "I was I wish it happened earlier instead of waiting until all the hard work was over."

Liston said he didn't think the postponement would have any bad effect on him. He also said he didn't think he would try to take another fight while waiting for Clay to recover.

"No," he said in answer to a question. "I don't plan to visit Clay in the hospital."

Bill Faversha, who manages Clay for a Louisville sponsoring group, said he personally was willing to waive a clause in the contract and permit Liston to take a tuneup bout if he wanted.

Both Faversham and Angelo Dundee, the champ's trainer, visited Clay Saturday morning. They reported him in fine spirits.

"Most of the time we were there he was worrying about how his camp people would get home," said Faversham. "He was still under sedation but he was clearly able to appreciate the fact that it was a good thing the injury took place last night instead of in the ring."

"He is resigned to the fact that he won't fight for a while, but is quite satisfied that he is on the way to recovery from this acute condition."

Dr. Nathan Shapiro, examing physician for the Massachusetts Boxing Commission who checked Clay at the hospital before the operation, said such hernia attacks happen suddenly about 20 per cent of the time.

Dr. Shapiro had examined Clay thoroughly Monday and said he found absolutely no traces of any hernia then.

Dr. Shapiro said Clay should be able to fight within five or six months. Another doctor put the date at seven months.

"This should not incapacitate Clay in any way," said Dr. Shapiro. "He should be stronger and better than ever when he has recovered."

Liston said he planned to continue training but would not fight until a new date had been set.

Harold Conrad, the publicity director, said the advance sale totalled $275,000 for Boston Garden and box office officials estimated a gate of $400,000.

Kansas In Squeeze By Colorado

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Kansas needed four big defensive plays in the last half and some cool quarterbacking by Bob Skahan to squeeze by Colorado 10-7 Saturday, keeping alive its Big Eight football title hopes.

Kansas capitalized on a break for its winning 33-yard field goal by Gary Duff early in the third period. Colorado's Sam Harris, back to punt on fourth down and two, decided to run and was stopped for no gain at his 28, Kansas taking over.

The Jayhawks brought their Big Eight record to 5-1, one game behind nationally fourth-ranked Nebraska. Hard luck Colorado, loser of four by four points or less, finished 1-6 in league play.

Colorado drove 72 yards to score its first time with the ball as quarterback Bernie McCall hit three short passes, the last one nine yards to Harris for the touchdown. Kansas came back to tie it, 82 yards in 11 plays.

Skahan ran 21, passed 18 to Sandy Buda and 9 to Gale Sayers. Mike Johnson got 24 on a sweep and Skahan scored from the fur.

A bad center pass gave Colorado a chance at the Kansas 18 early in the last quarter. But Mike Martin was hit at the 2 by Bob Robben, fumbled into the end zone and Dave Crandall recovered for Kansas.

Kansas State Escape Big Eight Cellar

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Kansas State escaped the Big Eight celler by edging Iowa State 7-6 this afternoon but nearly 16,000 spectators were thrown into a delirium of dispair as the Cyclones scored an apparent winning touchdown with 26 seconds left only to have it nullified because of a penalty.

The victory gave the Wildcats their second league victory in six games while the Cyclones are winnless in seven starts. Not since 1958 has Kansas State won more than two league victories and represented the first time Coach Doug Weaver has enjoyed such an affluence.

For three quarters it appeared that the slight underdog Wildcats would walk off with a not too seriously contested victory. But Clay Stappleton charger's came back with three situations in the fourth quarter that could have given them their second victory in eight games this year.

Coasting along on the 7-0 lead given by Ed Danieley's one yard quarterback sneak and Jerry Cook's extra point in the first quarter, Kansas State go in trouble half-way through the fourth quarter when the rookie halfback Henry Howard fumbled a fair catch attempt and Iowa State recovered on the K-State 15. The Cyclones scored when Ron Halda sliced over from the two with 6:07 left.

Thus the stage was set for the first of three crucial plays. Quarterback Tim Van Galder attempted to run a two pointer across but was bashed down a yard short by Bob Mitts, Max Martin, and Jerry Cook.

Playoff Is Necessary For Midgets

The Khoury soccer league in the midget Optimist class final scheduled games resulted in a play-off between Lions Club and Adco. Paul Klover, Circuit Director, announced that the midget championship play off will be two out of three games starting next Saturday at Centennial Park at 2:30 p. m. and a Sunday game may be played at Whiteman AFB. Overtime action, if necessary, will be undertaken until there is a winner in the play-offs.

Saturday afternoon action at Centennial Park in the midget class saw Pepsi-Cola win their first game of the season by downing Mutual of Omaha 3-0. Orion Gay scored first in the second half on a ten-foot kick from center on a assist from Carl Dumsday. Danny Van Dyne scored five feet out on a corner kick from Gary Stroup and Charlie Snyder kicked the final score on a penalty kick.

The Adco and S & M Athletic Goods game was a hard fought battle to a scoreless tie. S & M was pressing the attack only to be stopped several times by the fine defense play of Adco. The S & M team did get off several shots, many of which fell short or were wide of the mark.

In the second game IGA Foodliner defeated Rotary 3-1. Wesley White for IGA scored a high kick over the goalie's head 50 feet out with the help of the wind in the first half. In the second half for IGA Doug White sneaked the ball past the goalie in a scramble in front of the goal and Wesley White scored 25 feet from center. Rotary Goalie, Mark Edwards, kicked the penalty kick.

Baltimore Miss Wins Teen Title

The 17-year-old beauty with a dimpled smile looked dazed but didn't cry when Bud Collyer, emcee of the 90-minute CBS show, named her the winner.

A straight A student at the Institute of Notre Dame High School, Carolyn is a "real sweet, down to earth girl," her mother said. "You can also say that I'm the happiest mother in Maryland and Texas."

Kathleen Frances Ross, 17-year-old from Pittsburgh who was everybody's friend during the week-long pageant, was selected for an award of excellence. She will take over the title in the event Carolyn gives it up. Kathy did a humorous song and dance as Eliza singing "Wouldn't it be Loverly." She said she was "sky-high happy" after the show.

Other finalists were Andrea Lynn Ayers, 16, Greenville, S.C.; Linda Diane Licciardi, 17, San Francisco, and Debra Diethelm, 15, Toledo, Ohio.

The $10,000 college scholarship will enable Carolyn, one of six children of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Joseph Mignini, to attend Julliard School of Music next fall. She wants a degree before entering stage productions and doesn't plan to marry until she's about 27.

Carolyn entered the competition for the fourth annual pageant after her father, a clothes cutter, brought her a clipping telling about the scholarship and other prizes and said "Hi, hon, how would you like to be Miss Teen-age America?"

In addition to studying voice for five hours every Saturday at Peabody Preparatory School, Carolyn models for a Baltimore department store, works with the Baltimore Actors Theater and charity groups.

"She dates a lot and has many friends . . . she's really a joy of a daughter and that's no put-on, that's the truth," her mother, a hair stylist who was chaperone, said.

Carolyn has large dark brown eyes, weighs 105 pounds, and stands 5'3". Her favorite sports are tennis, swimming and horseback riding. In men, she looks for "consideration, a sense of humor, and gentlemanliness."

Springfield State Clinches Third Place

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Springfield State clinched third place in the MIAA football campaign Saturday with a 42-0 victory over Maryville State.

After leading 7-0 at halftime on Dennis Scott's nine-yard run, Springfield scored four times in Perry scored twice with a one-yard smash and an 85-yard sprint. Quarterback Dan Young passed 53 yards to Bill Douglass and 15 yards to Ron Young for two more touchdowns.

John Huddleston took a pass interception 47-yards to score in the final period. Pat Hogan kicked all six extra points.

Huge Steps To Titles To Be Taken

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Baltimore and Cleveland in the National League and Buffalo and San Diego in the American League can take huge steps toward wrapping up divisional titles Sunday in an 11-game pro football schedule.

The runaway Colts, (8-1) winners of eight straight since opening day, get a chance to square accounts with their lone tormentors, the Minnesota Vikings (5-4) in a big game at Baltimore.

Cleveland, (7-1-1) leading the NFL's Eastern Conference by two games, faces a tough hurdle in its old jinx club, the Detroit Lions (5-3-1), in an inter-conference battle. The Lions never have lost a regular season game to the Browns.

If the Browns falter, St. Louis (5-3-1) could move up closer by beating New York (2-6-1) in their rematch at St. Louis and Dallas (4-4-1) could close in by defeating Philadelphia (4-5) in Dallas.

Any stumble by the Colts would be welcomed by the Lions and Los Angeles Rams (5-3-1), tied for second in the West. The Rams play the slumping defending champion Chicago Bears (2-7) in Los Angeles. Green Bay (5-4) gets a shot at the 49ers (2-7) in San Francisco. Washington and Pittsburgh, each with 3-6 records, play at Pittsburgh.

Buffalo (9-0) puts pro football's only unbeaten record on the line at home against the Boston Patriots (6-2-1), the second place team in the AFL's Eastern Division. Buffalo is all steamed up about the big game. The Bills still are smarting from last year's beating by the Pats in the playoff for the Eastern title.

San Diego (6-2-1) can scuttle Kansas City's ambitions by beating the Chiefs (4-4) at Kansas City. The Chargers hold a 6-2 edge over Hank Stram's men and are riding a five-game winning streak.

The New York Jets (4-3-1), hoping to close ground on the Bills and Patriots, will be at Denver (1-8), and Houston (2-7) plays at Oakland (1-7-1).

Baltimore will be without Raymond Berry, the prime target for Johnny Unitas' passes in their rematch with the Vikings who beat them 34-24 on opening day. The Vikings staged four long touchdown marches in that game and rolled up a total of 488 yards. Linebacker Bill Jobko is lost to Minnesota for the year with a broken arm.

Cleveland's Jim Brown may find the Lions more vulnerable than usual because of the loss of Joe Schmidt, the veteran linebacker who suffered a shoulder dislocation last Sunday. Dennis Gaubatz will take his place.

Italy Walkout Ends

ROME (AP) — The week-long Communist union strike against Italy's railway system entered its final day today. The walkout cost the economy an estimated $56 million.

The Italian General Confederation of Labor, however, threatened still further strikes against the state-owned system because its contract dispute remained unsettled. It is seeking increased benefits for state employes.

Non-Communist unions refused to join the walkout, which since Monday has thrown the system's more than 2,200 daily trains into chaos.

Deserters Hideout For Twenty Years

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet police have tracked down two World War II deserters who hid out for more than 20 years in the woods, the newspaper Sovetskaya Rossiya reported today.

The paper said Terenty Teryokha and his son, Vladimir, took refuge in the woods near their village in northeast Russia when the Soviet army drove out the Germans.

Pep Assembly Boosts S-C Enthusiasm

By Lonita Martin

For a successful and rousing pep assembly, simply mix a pep band (well, experienced in playing favorite "fight" songs), six of the bounciest, livliest cheerleaders ever (S-C varsity, of course), and an auditorium full of enthusiastic Tiger football fans. Smith-Cotton followed this recipe expertly Thursday morning and victory was achieved that night at Sprinfield.

A demure little "Springfield Viking" charmed the Tigers and then tried to annihilate them with her DDT spray gun, but was completely foiled in the attempt by "school spirit" and "team strength." This skit, presented by several Spiz members left the fans cheering and laughing at the unexpected results.

After several spirited yells, the Spiz club and cheerleaders followed the pep band through the halls, singing and cheering all the while.

Future Teachers Discuss Tests

"The Pros and Cons of Exams" was the topic for a very interesting discussion at a meeting of the Future Teachers of America club this week. Bill Bob Long led this discussion in which the members themselves offered comments on such items as: type of tests (essay and objective), the merits of such tests, length of an adequate test, emphasis to be placed on tests, material included in a good test, and accuracy of tests to indicate learning. A vote taken at the meeting revealed that about half of the 46 members present preferred essay tests to obejctive tests. Mrs. Christine Killion, the club sponsor, offered some helpful suggestions as to the feaseability of several of the student comments for improvement of testing programs. A grading system was also discussed. The club plans to have various discussion sessions of this type throughout the year, since such discussions prove interesting and thought-provoking.

Drama For Senior High Assembly

The drama department, under the direction of Walter McCormick, speech and debate coach at S-C, presented the program for a senior high assembly Friday morning. Bill Brown, senior class president, and Mike Dizin, French foreign exchange student, enacted a cutting from Moliere's "Comedy of the Miser" with Mike first doing both parts in French, joined by Bill later, together doing the cutting in English.

The members of the cast of the drama club play "Bernadine" acted one scene from the play, which is to be presented to the public, Nov. 20, at 8 p.m. in the S-C auditorium.

Bank Robbery Charges Filed Against Fugitive

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The FBI Saturday filed bank robbery charges against a 26-year-old fugitive in the wake of Friday's $15,000 holdup of a drive-in bank in suburban Prairie Village, Kan.

The FBI said $9,500 of the loot was recovered in Kansas City, Mo.

The fugitive was identified as Gerald Thomas Meeker, no permanent address. FBI agent Harold Fitzgibbon said a warrant had been issued by the U. S. commissioner in Kansas City, Kan., charging Meeker with the bank robbery.

"An investigation is continuing to locate Meeker," Fitzgibbon said.

He said the charge carries a possible death penalty because a hostage was involved.

The bandit held a bank customer at gunpoint while ordering two bank tellers to fill a sack with money. He forced the hostage into the man's own truck, drove about 200 yards then fled on foot.

The FBI said it could not disclose how identification of Meeker was made or under what circumstances the money was found.

Outstanding Young Woman Is Selected

HANNIBAL, Mo. (AP)—Mrs. Dora Ella Miget of Farmington, Mo., was named outstanding young woman of Missouri Saturday by the wives of the state Junior Chamber of Commerce at the Jaycee's annual fall meeting.

Mrs. Miget is the mother of four children. She has been active in volunteer work at the State Hospital in Farmington.

The annual fall meeting is being attended by about 500 members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and their wives.

Vaughn To Be Named Comptroller

ST. LOUIS (AP) — John C. Vaughn, fired last year as a state budget analyst because he supported Gov. - Elect. Warren E. Hearnes, will be named Comptroller in the near future, reliable sources said Saturday.

Another appointment by Hearnes expected soon is that of Dexter D. Davis, St. Joseph farmer and industrialist, as Commissioner of Agriculture.

It also was learned that forwas offered the post of Director mer Director of Parks Joseph Jaeger Jr., of Jefferson City, of Revenue. However, Jaeger declined the initial offer after being hired by the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan to develop a national park system in that country.

Vaughn said he was fired from his $550-a-month post last December by Comptroller Charles D. Trigg, who supported Lt. Gov. Hilary A. Bush as Democratic gubernatorial nominee.

At that time, Vaughn accused Trigg of "lining up" his employes for Bush. Vaughan said then that most employes in the comptroller's office supported Bush because they feared for their jobs.

However, Trigg said his proposed successor was fired because "He was not loyal to me in office and you have to have certain standards of loyalty."

Trigg, Commissioner of Agriculture Don W. Thomason and Hollis M. Ketchum, Liquor Control Supervisor, are expected to be among the first to be replaced when Hearnes succeeds Gov. John M. Dalton in January. Both Trigg and Thomason supported Bush.

Ketchum had accused Hearnes supporters during the primary of trying to influence him into relaxing enforcement of liquor control laws. The comptroller's position pays $12,000 annually, the agriculture commissioner's post $10,000 and the liquor control supervisor's job $9,500.

Davis, who would succeed Thomason, is the brother of W. True Davis Jr., U.S. ambassador to Switzerland. Thomason supported Bush in the August primary while Davis backed Hearnes.

Jaeger resigned from the park department last December to enter the race for secretary of state. He was beaten in the primary by James C. Kirkpatrick, Windsor nespaper publisher, who was elected this month.

The $15,000-a-year director of revenue post will be vacant in January when incumbent M.E. Morris assumes this third four-year term as state treasurer. He became the state's first revenue director in 1946 and had since alternated between that appointed position and the elected treasurer post.

Hearnes is expected to name Board of Police Commissioners and to the St. Louis County Board of Election Commissioners next week. However, there was no indication when he may make appointments to the St. Louis and Kansas City election boards or to the Kansas City Board.

5,950 Deer Are Shot By Hunters In Missouri

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Missouri hunters killed 5,950 whitetail deer on the second day of the seven-day Missouri gun season Saturday.

That brought the two day total of 11,426 compared with 7,435 on the second in 1963.

Hubert White, 65, of Granite City, Ill., was the first fatality. He was shot in the head in Ste. Genvieve County when he was mistaken for a deer.

A 14-year-old Freeburg, Mo., hunter also was wounded when he was shot in the hip, but his injury was termed not serious.

In Saturday's hunting, Ozark County led with 242 deer killed, Texas County was second with 216, and Benton County was third with 212.

The State Conservation Commission reported 33 forest fires and a brisk wind whipped through woods in a period of low humidity. Eleven of the fires were attributed to hunters, but 14 fires were put out by hunters.

Still burning at nightfall was a big fire northeast of Farmington where 600-800 acres were threatened. Hunters helped the firefighting crews on that blaze.

Quicksand

Quicksand differs from ordinary sand in that the grains are not packed together tightly and, therefore, quicksand does not remain firm when water gets into it. It cannot support a heavy weight, thus becoming a dangerous trap for animals and men.

Jim Nabors Virtually An Instant Star

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Every so often there comes along a performer who is such a natural as to be virtually an instant star. Just such a fellow is Jim Nabors.

He plays the title on CBS' Friday night comedy "Gomer Pyle—USMC," which surprised everyone by landing the No. 3 spot on the first big rating report of the season.

Jim Nabors was the most surprised of all. "Ah cain't remembuh ennuh comedy gotta big ratin' on Frideh naht; ah wuz scaired," said he—recorded phonetically.

As you can gather, Jim is from the South—Sylacauga, Ala. At times his drawl becomes so actute he makes his mentor, Andy Griffith, sound like a Yankee.

"I tried to get rid of it once when I was working at the United Nations," said Jim. "But I just couldn't manage it."

Jim worked at a number of jobs after graduating from the University of Alabama in business administration. Among his last was assistant cutter at NBC. "I hated it," he recalled. "Some cutters have creative work, but all I was doing was slicing the film to put in commercials."

He was moonlighting at a Santa Monica night spot called The Horn. Though he never had an opera lesson in his life, he could belt out an aria with amazing skill. Then he'd translate the words in his own 'Bama rhetoris. He convulsed the audience, which, on one night, included Andy Griffith.

The result: A regular spot on the Griffith show, then his own series.

Jim is an easy moving chap with a mobile face and an off-center jaw. "I got a terrible bite," he remarked. "Lot of people call me slack-jawed, but it's that way because of a vitamin deficiency when I was a kid."

He is a bachelor who lives alone and doesn't particularly like it, especially the continual eating out. He's usually too tired or busy to cook for himself. When he isn't filming the series, he's touring the country to promote it.

"Andy and I have the same business manager, and he gives us each $50 a week for spending money," said Jim. "I realized how busy I had been when I discovered I had six of the checks uncashed."

Technical Sergeant Charles A. Barnes, whose wife, Zelpha, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Craig, 501 East 25th, Sedalia, has arrived for duty with a Military Air Transport Service (MATS) unit at Hunter AFB, Ga. He previously served in the U.S. Navy.

Sergeant Barnes, who has seven years military service, will serve as an air traffic controller at Hunter. His new unit supports the MATS mission of providing global airlift of U. S. military forces and equipment.

Economic Plan Drawn For Czechs

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia — (AP) — This country is shot through with a ferment of economic and social change that could shape its whole future, even politically.

Of all the Socialist states, Czechoslovakia has followed the Moscow line perhaps the most closely. During the uprisings of Poles and Hungarians in 1956, Czechoslovakia slammed shut its frontiers and stood firmly with Moscow.

When the dispute between Moscow and Peking grew hot, President Antonin Novotny announced full support of the Soviet Union and Nikita Khrushchev.

But something new has come. It had to. After a preliminary upsurge from the low point following the war, industrial production steadily lost momentum and in 1963 actually fell behind 1962.

To try to turn the tide, party leaders, backed by young economists, have drafted an economic plan which aims to reshape the entire industrial structure.

A Czech official, in a good position to estimate what is coming, says of the new plan:

"It will bring a change which will not necessarily alter the relationship of Czechoslovakia with either the Soviet Union or the United States, but it will bring internal changes of great importance to the economy of the country — and much besides."

The new plan calls for a progressive elimination of Moscow-style centralized economic controls and a large play to individual initiative.

Many Czechoslovaks, both official and nonofficial, have sensed the deterioration painfully. Of all the Socialist states, they had the highest standard of living during the past 30 years. Moreover, of all the Socialist states, they had and still have the closest contacts with the West, with long frontiers adjoining booming West Germany and Austria.

Their condition was brought sharply home to them recently when the Czechoslovak television service arranged a debate between Czech and Austrian journalists and economists. For the Czechs, it turned out to be a disaster.

The Austrian debaters pointed out the sharp contrasts in living standards between the two countries, sparing nothing. They pointed to the freedom of the Austrian economy and of the Austrian people to travel where they want and to read what they please.

The Czech debaters could only reply lamely that things were not too bad.

Thanksgiving Proclamation By Johnson

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—Here is the text of President Johnson's proclamation of Nov. 26 as Thanksgiving day:

As the harvest season draws to a close and our storehouses bulge with the bounty of the land, it is our desire to observe, in the custom and tradition of our forebears, a special day dedicated to giving thanks to God — a day on which to lay aside our daily tasks and cares and pay joyous homage to Him. We are impelled to raise our voices in His praise and to proclaim our heartfelt gratitude for another year in which we have been blessed with a bountiful harvest, with intellectual, humanitarian, economic, scientifice and technical advances and achievements, and with other gains too numerous to mention.

Although we have been blessed with unsurpassed prosperity, we recognize that poverty and want exist throughout the world — even among us—and we pledge ourselves to the eradication of those evils.

We know, too, that the foundation for a peaceful world is still to be built and that even now armed strife exists in parts of the world. We are saddened that gallant men of our armed services have fallen in the eternal quest for peace with freedom, dignity, and justice for all. We share with their bereaved families and friends a sense of tragic loss. In the words of Abraham Lincoln, we resolve "that these honored dead shall not have died in vain," and vow that their loss will spur us ever onward until man's great dream of universal peace is realized.

Yet we are filled with an instinctive impulse to give thanks for —Our free society of free men, free institutions, and free elections;

—Our freedom of speech, our freedom of the press, and our freedom to worship as our conscience dictates;

—Our emphasis upon the dignity, equality, and worth of man:

—Our humanitarian instincts;

—Our unalienable right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness;

—Our conficence in our ability to meet the challenges of today and of the future.

For these are the things that set us apart as a nation — that made our nation great — that will keep our nation great.

So as our forefathers in Virginia, in New England, and throughout this land have done for more than three and one half centuries, let us appoint a special day on which all of us, in keeping with the dictates of our own conscience, will give thanks to the Lord for His manifold blessings. And on that day, let us rededicate ourselves to meeting the challenges of the present with the fortitude and faith with which our forefathers met the challenges of the past.

Now, therefore, I, Lyndon B. Johnson, President of the United States of America, in consonance with the Joint Resolution of the Congress approved December 26, 1941, 55 Stat. 862 (5 U.S.C. 87B), designating the fourth Thursday of November in each year as Thanksgiving Day, do hereby proclaim Thursday, November 26, 1964, as a day of national thanksgiving.

On that day, let us gather in our homes and in our places of worship and in other suitable places to give thanks to God for His graciousness and His generosity to us — to pledge to Him our ever-lasting devotion — to beseech His divine guidance and the wisdom and strength to recognize and follow that guidance — and to pray to Him that the forces of evil, violence, indifference, intolerance, and inhumanity may soon vanish from the face of the earth and that peace, reason, understanding, and good will may reign supreme throughout the world.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States of America to be affixed.

Done at the City of Washington this thirteenth day of November in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and sixty-four, and of the independence of the United States of America the one hundrd and eighty-ninth.

PRINCE'S CHOICE — Prince Michael of Greece, the brother of King Constantine, has become engaged to Miss Marina Karella, above. The announcement follows the marriage of the king to Danish Princess Anne-Marie.

Pravda Crop Gripe

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda complained today that Russia's bumper harvest this year "could have been considerably better."

The Communist party organ sounded the first sour note in the flood of self-congratulation here over the successful agricultural year.

THE SEDALIA DEMOCRAT

Sunday, November 15, 1964 | In Combination With The Sedalia Capital | Feature Section

Promoting Road Safety, Good Will

By LARRY EMBRY

Members of the Drag-Ons Car Club are hard at work rebuilding a vehicle which will never see automotive competition, but they are getting as much satisfaction out of their project as if they were building a personal car for themselves.

Through several Sedalians the club learned of the need for a pickup truck by Tom Butterfield, the devoted young man who is establishing Butterfield Boys Ranch near Marshall.

"We voted it in pretty quick," said President Larry Rennison in reference to the club taking on the project.

This left them with the need for a truck they could afford to rework and it was made available when Walter McClure, who resides northeast of Sedalia, offered them a 1950 truck which needed reconditioning, but appeared ideal for the boys' plans.

McClure heard the club was looking for a truck, and since he had met no success in attempting to sell the vehicle, he turned it over to the club.

Butterfield at present has only a stationwagon available for transportation on the old Marshall Country Club property, which he has converted to a boys ranch. The truck is needed for various hauling chores around the ranch and will come in handy collecting items which have been donated to Butterfield. During the winter, the truck is needed to haul coal.

Drag-On members drove the vehicle into Sedalia and took it to the garage of Dick Schultz, 410 East Third, where the club holds its regular Monday night meetings. This was three weeks ago and the trucks parts are now scattered over the garage as members tackle various portions of the reconditioning job.

"We plan to have the truck finished by the Christmas parade and will present it to Mr. Butterfield then," said Rennison. "We're going to upholster it, overhaul the motor, put on better tires, maybe not new ones, but better ones, put a new floor in the bed and repaint it in the original color."

"Since we brought the truck in there has been somebody here working on it practically every night."

But the boys are getting some breaks on refurbishing the truck. Some parts have been donated, others are promised, a paint job is pledged and they hope a benefit dance they are sponsoring Saturday, Nov. 28, at Convention Hall will bring in enough proceeds to buy the balance of the necessary parts.

The car club dates back to 1956, has 19 members and at present is the only such club active in Sedalia. Its members are mostly in their late teens and early 20's because of their common driving interest. Ages range from 17 to 27.

While all the members enjoy the powerful hum of a well-tuned motor and many participate in drag competition, these are not the club's purposes as their by-laws point out:

"The purpose of the club shall be to promote road safety and courtesy on American highways, to show the public what the true word of Hot Rodder means. Also to show the public what good organized Hot Rod clubs can do."

This road safety theme is reiterated again and again in membership requirements.

Any member who incurs a moving traffic violation resulting in conviction or is involved in an accident, must report these occurrences to the first business meeting thereafter. Welching on this club charge means a fine of one-half his court fine and he must then stand trial before fellow clubmen at the next meeting.

A member who has an accident will have his case investigated by three members appointed by the president and they will report to the membership. After hearing this report the members vote on whether or not they think their fellow clubman should stand trial before them.

Charges signed by three or more members can also bring another member before the group for trial. The club expells members found guilty by two-thirds majority.

Members pay $2 for a membership and plaque and then 50 cents a week. They can also be fined for not attending meetings without just cause.

But all the club's measures are not all aimed toward coping with accidents after they occur. To prevent them, each member must have his automobile run through a club safety check every three months. The cars of new members also must pass this safety check.

Current officers of the club are: Larry Rennison, 1603 East 11th, president; Gary Hayden, 2033 East Seventh, vice president; Dennis Smethers, 708 East 13th, secretary; Dick Schultz, 410 East Third, treasurer; Gary Deuel, 164 South Summer, reporter; and Steve Bottcher, 1110 East 11th, sergeant-at-arms.

ATTENDANCE RECORDS—Secretary Dennis Smethers, (left), goes over club attendance records with Steve Bottcher, who is the sergeant-at-arms. Missing weekly meetings can mean a fine and skipping two in four weeks puts a membership in jeopardy. Smethers and Bottcher both wear club jackets. The attendance chart bears the Drag-Ons insignia, which is carried in the form of a cast aluminum license plate on the front of their cars.

Too Peaceful In British Honduras

(AP) — The trouble with this tiny British colony is that it's just too peaceful.

Independence is there for the asking, but no one seems in a hurry for it. This deprives the colony of international attention as an "emerging, underdeveloped country."

That, in sum, is how some British Hondurans see themselves.

"We're too well-behaved," says George Price, the premier. "We're not inviting Russia here to build bases and, instead of communism, we preach Christian democracy. So, everyone takes us for granted."

Price is a good-looking, smooth-talking bachelor of 45 with a huge following among the colony's women.

"If he were married he'd have no party," a critic said.

Since 1960 Price has bossed this Massachusetts-sized wedge of land jammed in between Guatemala and Mexico on the Caribbean coast.

Shipwrecked British seamen settled in what is now Belize, the capital.

A good, hard look at this city of 37,000 is enough to convince anyone of the long, hard pull ahead to make the colony a going noncern.

This is a country of heavily wooded mountains in the south and tropical plain in the north with limited natural and human resources. There are less than 100,000 people on its 8,900 square miles.

Founded as a logging settlement 300 years ago, lumber is still one of its main industries. Seventy per cent of the population is of African ancestry. English is the official language, but about 20 per cent speak Spanish. The ancient Mayan language survives among 10 per cent.

The all-wood construction makes Belize particularly vulnerable to frequent hurricanes. The city was leveled in 1931 by a storm that left 3,000 dead. In 1961, Hurricane Hattie took 262 lives and caused damage estimated at about $30 million.

Every backyard has a giant wooden vat fed by long drainpipes attached to slanting tin roofs. This is what passes for a water system. Few homes have an interior water supply. It rains 70 inches a year. Sewage runs in open, concrete-lined canals.

"To speak of independence under these conditions is mockery," says Philip Goldson, 31, leader of the opposition National Independence party.

Calls For Government Role In Birth Control Campaign

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Margaret Sanger, founder of the birth-control movement, has little hope that the population explosion will be controlled.

"I just don't see how we can control the birth rate until we get the government to agree that this is something that should be taken seriously," said Mrs. Sanger in a recent interview.

"Other countries feel that if our country is against it, it must be bad," she continued. "Americans would be much more acceptable when they go abroad to work in this problem, if we could get our government to okay it under population control."

Mrs. Sanger, who once challenged President Dwight D. Eisenhower to debate whether birth control is a proper concern of government, advises her country to follow Japan's example.

"The first time I went to Japan, I didn't get anywhere," she said. "But when I went back after the war, I found that quite a movement had been building up. We could do well to copy the Japanese on this."

However, she is not so optimistic about finding a solution to India's population problem.

"The difficulty there is the language," she explained. "Even Mr. Nehru didn't speak all the languages of India."

Mrs. Sanger said she is encouraged by what she sees as a change in the attitude of the Roman Catholic Church.

But what the birth-control movement still needs most of all is education, she said. "Education is needed mainly among the poor and illiterate. I began the movement really because of them."

When she began her crusade to make birth control a public issue and a private possibility back in 1912, the whole subject was taboo.

"I had to be very careful about the words I used," Mrs. Sanger recalled. "Even my father — an outspoken Irishman who brought me up to do my own thinking — said to me one day: 'Margaret, can't you find some other subject in the world to talk about besides the bedroom?' And he whispered when he said 'bedroom'!"

Although she was jailed eight times for her efforts to spread information, Mrs. Sanger isn't bitter.

"Every time I was put in jail, it was a mistake," she explained. "It was by somebody who didn't know anything and thought I was advocating abortion. Actually, I was trying to get people to give up abortion and use contraceptives."

Mrs. Sanger founded the Planned Parenthood organization and was its international president until just a few years ago.

Kaiser Aluminum Plans New Center

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corp. said Thursday it will build a multi-million dollar research center at Pleasanton, 28 miles from its Oakland headquarters.

President T. J. Riley Jr. said the company will begin building late in 1965.

Ready said Kaiser Aluminum plans, over the next few years, to consolidate most of the company's present research activities at the Pleasanton center. The company's major research facilities at present include refractories research labs at Milpitas, Calif., and Mexico, Mo.

Family In Hospital

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Nine of the eleven members of the Donald Westenberger family were in the hospital Thursday.

Six children, ages 3 to 11, were in Normand Osteopathic Hospital in St. Louis County to have their tonsils removed. Dr. Maury Sosnoff had planned the mass movement for convenience to the mother.

Post Office Contract

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $257,175 contract has been awarded to L. Kay Construction Co., St. Louis by the General Services Administration for construction of a post office-federal building at Montgomery City, Mo.

Seneca Might Get Better Post Office

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Durward G. Hall, R-Mo., said Thursday that a post office department official had informed him that Seneca, Mo., may get a better post office.

Hall said the Postal Department official consideration is being given to the leasing of a building previously used as a bowling alley. The congressman said it was explained where appropriate facilities are available in an existing building a new post office is not authorized.

Mrs. Robert Wayne Taylor

Miss Linda Jo Woffort Marries Robert Wayne Taylor Nov. 1st

The marriage of Miss Linda Jo Wofford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Wofford, 1428 South Park, to Mr. Robert Wayne Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Taylor, 503 East 15th, took place at half past two o'clock Sunday afternoon, Nov. 1, at First Christian Church.

The Rev. Harry Purviance, pastor, read the double ring ceremony. The altar was centered with a large arrangement of myrtle foliage, seven branch candelabra and arrangements of yellow gladioli and yellow and bronze chrysanthemums. Choir rails were decorated with jade leaves and backed by large arrangements of jade foliage. Bouquets of yellow gladioli marked family pews.

Mrs. H. O. Foraker, played traditional wedding music on organ and chimes. She accompanied Mr. Charles Jarrett as he sang "Because," preceding the ceremony, and "The Lord's Prayer," as the couple knelt at the prayer bench.

Candles were lighted by Miss Debbie Purviance and Miss Kay McNeal. They wore gowns of gold and white taffeta. Their wrist corsages were of yellow pompon chrysanthemums. Gold taffeta cabbage roses formed their headdresses.

Mr. Wofford escorted his daughter to the altar and gave her in marriage. Her traditional wedding gown of silk faced peau de soie was styled with an oval neckline and long tapering sleeves. The fitted bodice was highlighted with Alencon lace, which framed the neck and were repeated on the skirt front. Gathered with great fullness at the sides and back, the skirt extended to a chapel length train. Her headdress was a cabbage rose of silk, which held her veil of imported illusion. She carried a cascade arrangement of white Catelleya orchids and frenched white carnations atop a white Bible given her by two cousins.

Before the wedding, the bridal couple exchanged a diamond pendant also set with diamonds from the bride's mother's rings, and a diamond tie tack, set with a diamond from a ring given the bride by her parents on her tenth birthday.

Maid of honor was Miss Lynda Eckles. She wore a dress of gold satin and a cabbage rose headdress of the same material. Her flowers were bronze chrysanthemums and pompon chrysanthemums with camellia foliage, in cascade arrangement. Bridesmaids, Miss Janet Carol and Miss Linda Gauert, were attired in yellow taffeta gowns and cabbage rose headdresses of gold and yellow taffeta. They carried bronze chrysanthemums, yellow pompon chrysanthemums and camellia foliage.

Mr. Larry Hill was best man. Groomsmen were Mr. LeRoy Johnson and Mr. Randall Bellamy.

Ushers were Mr. Max Balke, Cole Camp, Mr. Wayne Taylor and Mr. Darryl Cook.

Miss Sherry McConnell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George McConnell, served as flower girl. Her gown of gold satin, was fashioned like that of the bride. Her headdress was a gold cabbage rose in miniature. She carried a petal basket with a corsage of bronze pompon chrysanthemums attached to the handle.

The bride's mother wore a gold wool dress and bronze accessories. Her corsage was brown Cymbidium orchids. The mother of the bridegroom selected for the wedding, a gold knit dress and accessories of brown. Her corsage was also of brown Cymbidium orchids.

After the ceremony, a reception for 200 guests was held in fellowship hall.

Drapes of smilax were caught at the corners of the bridal table with yellow bows and gathered in the front center with large bronze chrysanthemums. Two silver candlesticks holding lighted yellow tapers stood at two sides of the cake. Surrounding the cake base were smilax and yellow and bronze pompon chrysanthemums.

The reception was arranged by Mrs. Harry Purviance and Mrs. Richard Leach. Assisting were Mrs. Gene Herrick, Mrs. Donald Trueman, Mrs. Milton Dale, Mrs. George McConnell and Mrs. Pam May.

Serving at the bride's table were Mrs. Wayne Taylor, Miss Karen Tray and Miss Cheryl Palmer. Punch was served by Mrs. Max Balke, Cole Camp, and Mrs. W. C. Eckles. Gifts were attended by Miss Dianne Purviance and Miss Doni Loski.

For a wedding trip to Independence, the bride chose a white wool dress with black accessories. She wore white Catelleya orchids from her bridal bouquet at the shoulder of her dress. The couple is at home at 728 Jennings, Apartment 208, Independence.

The bride was graduated in 1964 from Smith - Cotton High School and was employed by Commonwealth Theatres.

The bridegroom, who also attended Smith - Cotton High School, was graduated from Moler Barber College, Kansas City, in September of 1964. He is employed at Bill's Barber Shop, Woodridge Shopping District, Independence. Mr. Taylor also served in the United States Marines.

Mrs. J. C. Morgan

Miss Linda Waterfield is Bride Of Mr. J. C. Morgan on Nov. 1

A double ring ceremony united in marriage Miss Linda Waterfield and Mr. J. C. Morgan at two o'clock Sunday afternoon, Nov. 1 at Calvary Baptist Church. The Rev. Charles Hendrickson, pastor, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Waterfield, 1015 Royal Boulevard. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Leon Morgan, Green Ridge.

Baskets of chrysanthemums and carnations, all in white, were placed on the altar with white candelabra and an altar bench of white and gold.

The bride, escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of French lace and silk mist taffeta. The molded silk bodice was designed with Sabrina neckline and long tapering sleeves. An overlay of lace framed the neck and indicated the lifted waist. Fullness of the dome shaped silk skirt was achieved by unpressed pleats released at the waist. A lace trimmed Watteau train extended to chapel length. Her headdress was a miniature petal hat of lace and pearls, which held her bouffant veil of silk illusion. Her flowers were cascades of white glamellias with green tipped centers, fashioned into a colonial bouquet. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom.

The Rev. Charles Likely, Green Ridge, sang "I Love You Truly" and "The Wedding Prayer," accompanied by Mrs. Evelyn Rabourn, organist. Before the ceremony, Mrs. Rabourn played traditional wedding music.

Miss Sharon Waterfield, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Her floor length dress of emerald green brocaded satin was accented with a halo hat of the same color and three quarter white gloves. Her semi-colonial bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums and green tinted shoes completed her costume. Bridesmaids, Misses Vickie Martin and Miss Jeannie Madden, wore dresses styled like that of the honor attendant. They carried yellow chrysanthemums.

Miss April Spry, cousin of the bride, was flower girl.

Best man was Mr. J. B. Vannoy. Groomsmen were Mr. Larry Brooks, LaMonte, and Mr. Jim Reed. Ushers were Mr. Larry Waterfield, brother of the bride, Mr. James Waterfield, uncle of the bride, Mr. Freddy Ream and Mr. David McCune, Green Ridge.

The mother of the bride wore a cocoa brown dress with beige accessories and a corsage of white glamellias. A beige dress, accessorized with beige and a corsage of white flowers were worn by the mother of the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church basement. The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth and centered with a wedding cake. The cake was highlighted on the top tier with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Mrs. Flossie Ream and Mrs. Ann Spry, aunts of the bride, attended the guest book. Mrs. Larry Brooks and Mrs. F. S. Waterfield assisted with gifts. Assisting at the reception were Mrs. James Waterfield, Mrs. Emmett Cox, Mrs. William Morgan, Mrs. Ronald Alexander.

CARE OF CARPET AND RUGS

Mrs. Studer

Today we are glad to bring you some helpful hints on how to take care of your floor covering. We hope you find this useful.

For removal of lint, dust and surface soil use your carpet sweeper daily and then use a thorough vacuum cleaning once a week to prevent soil from becoming embedded in the carpet.

Professional cleaning is advisable once a year in most cases. This may be done right in the home by professional cleaners using shampooing or powder methods. Removable rugs may be sent out for shampooing or dry cleaning.

Immediate removal of spots and stains is most important. Remove the excess liquid with a blotter or absorbent cloth. Sponge the spot with a solution of one teaspoonful of detergent in a quart of water, adding a teaspoonful of white vinegar on stubborn spots. Avoid getting the carpet too wet, and then dry it as quickly as possible.

"Sprouting" (rising of tufts above the pile level) is corrected by snipping off the loose tufts. Rising tufts should be clipped but NEVER pulled out.

Shading and fluff of carpet is not a defect. It simply means that loose bits of material are coming through the surface and these are removed by the vacuum until fluffing gradually stops.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I am going steady with a nice young man named Bill. We are both college sophomores. He has a habit which is getting on my nerves and no amount of talking will make him stop.

Whenever we are alone Bill tickles me in the ribs. I'm ticklish by nature and ever since he found this out he has been driving me crazy.

This is no laughing matter, Ann. In fact it's making a nervous wreck out of me. Am I over-reacting, or is Bill just a big tease who has found a way to irritate me?—NOT FUNNY.

Dear Not: Tickling equates with "playful" wrestling. It's a sneaky device to wear down the resistance. What may appear to be nice clean fun is neither nice and clean, nor is it fun. Tell Billy Boy to keep his hands to himself or find another girl.

Dear Ann: John and I were married 10 years ago. I had already graduated from college but the service interrupted John's education so I worked to put him through.

John is now 33, we own an attractive home and have three fine children. We have no heavy financial worries and I thought our marriage was a good one.

This past year John has been talking about a divorce. At first I believed it was only conversation, but now he is insisting. He simply says he no longer wants the responsibilities of marriage and I should set him free to "enjoy life."

Since he has no grounds for divorce John wants me to divorce him for "cruel and inhuman treatment"—although he is neither cruel nor inhuman. John claims he loves the children but if he saw them on weekends it would be enough.

I am desperately trying to save our marriage but his mind is made up. Is he sick? I need your help.—BEWILDERED.

Dear B.: If John wants to leave you can't chain him to the bedpost—nor should you want to, but DON'T divorce him. If there is more to the story than John is telling you, he is indeed sick. Urge him to get help.

Meanwhile tell John he can leave any time he wishes (he will anyway) but don't hand a divorce to a father of three children merely because he wants to be free to "enjoy life."

Dear Ann Landers: Our son has been going with a nice young woman for over a year. He told us he plans to give Barbara a ring next month. We've never met her parents.

Saturday I ran into Barbara in the beauty shop. I told her I'd like to have her parents to dinner next week and suggested they pick the night and let me knew.

After five days I asked our son if Barbara had delivered the message. He said "Oh, I forgot to tell you. Barbara said her folks would love to meet you but you don't have to fix a meal. They'd prefer to drop by whenever it's convenient. You are supposed to let them know.

I feel the woman treated my invitation shabbily. Isn't it HER turn to invite us now?—SLIGHTED.

Dear Slighted: If you've never heard of the telephone or the U. S. mails please investigate these remarkable methods of communication and stop sending dinner invitations by the girl messenger.

It's up to the parents of the young man to invite the parents of the prospective bride to their home if they heve never met. Don't complicate your son's life by having trouble with his in-laws even before he gets into the family.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Asks Directed Acquittal Verdict In Shooting Case

BROOKFIELD, Mo. (AP) — The attorney for Charles Leo Bishop, 57, who is charged with the fatal shooting of an Iowa woman on Sept. 19, asked Friday for a directed verdict of acquittal.

The attorney, Walter Allen of Brookfield, filed a motion asking for the acquittal on grounds that Bishop is insane. He asked that Bishop be confined in a state hospital.

Bishop, of Meadville, Mo., was arrested for shooting a .12 gauge shotgun at a passing car near his home. Mrs. Mary Jones, 66, of Clarinda, Iowa, was fatally wounded by one of the shots.

Allen said psychiatrists who examined Bishop at the state hospital in Fulton indicated that Bishop did not realize the nature of his act and that he is suffering from a mental disease as defined by law.

The motion was filed in the Lynn County circuit court.

State Budget For One Year, Hearnes Plan

By LARRY HALL
Associated Press Writer

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov.-Elect Warren E. Hearnes is looking into the feasibility of putting Missouri's state budget on a one-year basis.

He plans to discuss the problem with legislative leaders when he meets with them the week of Nov. 23 to go over some of his plans for the 1965 Legislature.

Some of the preliminary budget planning is already under way. John C. Vaughn, who is expected to be the new comptroller and budget director started the work weeks ago, even before the general election.

Vaughn formerly was on the budget staff as an analyst but got fired during the campaign because he was a Hearnes supporter. He is expected to be appointed soon as Comptroller Charles D. Trigg's successor.

Currently the state budget is set up on a two-year basis. The fiscal year starts July 1 but because of the need for advance planning, state agencies and institutions have to project their estimates almost three years in advance. This work has been going on since last summer.

The long time lag makes things especially difficult for the fast growing colleges and universities, where enrollments are booming as never before.

It's also a tough problem for agencies whose programs are linked to uncertain economic conditions, like the welfare programs.

Many states — Kansas for example — have yearly legislative sessions with the "off-year" session limited to budget problems and any emergencies that may have arisen since the regular session the preceding year.

Even in Missouri, there is precedent for a one-year budget. That's the way Former Gov. James T. Blair handled the problem when he came into office with the idea of setting up a professional budget staff for the first time.

Until he could get the staff operating and obtain the basic fiscal in Formation that was so sadly lacking then, he asked the legislature to appropriate for one year only. At the end of that time, he called a special session and a new set of appropriations was ready, based on a functional approach for the first time.

Since then, the functional type budget has continued in use but appropriations have been made on a biennial basis.

The "Little Hoover" Commission has been studying the problem and is reported to be readying a recommendation for annual appropriations as a permanent thing.

There has been some objection that annual sessions would be too costly. One way to cut the expense would be to have the appropriations committees to come to Jefferson City ahead of time and get their work done before the other legislators reported for duty.

In that way it has been suggested the legislative session itself might be held to 30 days or so, barring other emergencies.

Hearnes also has indicated he plans to ask the 1965 legislature to put a constitutional amendment on the ballot to allow a governor to serve two terms — something both candidates for governor favored in the campaign.

Hearnes says he found considerable support for the idea around the state. If the legislature does not accept the idea, he says he'll ask the people to put it on the ballot by initiative petition so the voters will have a chance to pass on it, one way or another, by 1966.

Caught between appointments in his busy office, the governor-elect said he would start announcing some of his key appointments in a few days.

Needlework Contest Winner In Missouri

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) —Two women from Missouri and one from Kansas won awards Friday for needlework in the National Grange contest in Atlantic City.

Mrs. J.H. Hetzler, Lewistown, Mo., received the best of show prize for her needlework on a bedspread. She received a $1,000 prize in a category which included work on tableclothes and luncheon cloths; bedspreads, doiles and centerpieces; chair, vanity, buffet sets and placements, and edging.

The other winners were: Mrs. Minnie Haston, Keytesville, Mo. doiles and centerpieces, and Mrs. Earl Maffett, Fort Scott, Kan., for edgings.

Inventive Genious Encouraged by Judge

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) A man working on an invention shouldn't be bothered by a legal technicality, Judge Norman B. Sortor decided in City Court Friday.

Glen Bundy was in court on a charge ot operating a machine shop in an area zoned for residential use.

Bundy testified he was working on a device to spray insecticide on farm crops. He said he was not selling anything.

"Inventive genious should be encouraged," Judge Sortor said. "When the invention is perfected and offered for sale, that will provide a different legal angle."

The judge dismissed the charge.

Light Moments For Judges On Tour of Prison

LEWISBURG, Pa. (AP) — There's the story about the governor touring a state penal institution when he was met in a narrow hallway by a life-term convict.

"Pardon me," the convict said as he brushed by.

A similar incident occurred here Thursday as 34 federal judges were touring the U.S. penitentiary and a prisoner called from his cell: "I hope you can cut some sentences."

The judges knew he was joking, and joined in the laughter.

At another point in the tour, U.S. Dist. Judge Francis L. Van Dusen of Philadelphia was approached in the machine shop by a young man in his late 20s who asked if more law books could be acquired for the prison library.

"They don't have as many here as at Leavenworth or Atlanta," the prisoner complained.

Although the tour had its lighter moments, Warden O. G. Blackwell, who once headed Alcatraz, considered the visit a most serious thing.

"It gives the judges an opportunity to see what happens to a man after he's sentenced," Blackwell said. "We have the responsibility to carry out the sentence of the court. This shows the judges how we're doing it."

The tour was part of a three-day sentencing institute attended by U.S. District Court judges from the Third Circuit, comprising Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware and the Virgin Islands.

Applies For Charter

WASHINGTON (AP) — The huge Mercantile Trust Company of St. Louis has applied for a national bank charter, the office of Comptroller of the Currency James J. Saxon said Friday.

The bank has resources of $883 million and would be the largest ever to convert from a state to a national charter.

If the change is approved by stockholders Dec. 21 and by Saxon, the bank will come under Saxon's supervision.

IN A DRAMATIC and compelling scene from The Bishop's Company's presentation of highlights from Shaw's Saint Joan, Dunois instructs Joan in the art of strategy as they are studying the English entrenchment in the forts prior to the battle of Orleans. This unique company has a touring record of over a million miles in the 50 states and Canada.

Saint Joan Drama Set At Calvary Episcopal

George Bernard Shaw's Saint Joan drama, will be given by the Bishop's Company, in person, at Calvary Episcopal Church on Dec. 8 at 8 p.m.

The Company, first repertory group of its kind, presents the play, considered by many to be the finest of the several plays about Joan of Arc. It begins with Joan's life as a simple farm girl who heard God's commands through her voices, giving her complete faith and purpose.

Staged by The Bishop's Company, Saint Joan finds heightened meaning in its new and vital form; a masterpiece of theatric excitement that seems, if possible, more significant today then when it first appeared. The Bishop's Company presentation reveals the essence of the 19-year-old girl herself, depicting scenes with Joan and the men who had a key part in her road to total fulfillment.

The story is of a simple country maid who hears in her heavenly voices the sources of inspiration which leads her to a life of devotion and service. A peasant girl unable to read or write crowns a king and saves a nation. Martyrdom is her earthly reward but her name and faith have become a beacon through centuries.

A story of faith never more pertinent than today when world decisions lie on the conscience of each man and woman. The company finds a parallel in this story of man's inhumanity to man and similarly man's ability by faith and inspiration to overcome the separateness that divides the world.

Playing the coveted role of Saint Joan will be Renee Rozan. The several roles of the men who completed Joan's history will be skillfully and deftly enacted by Tom Deven and Merle Harbach.

The Bishop's Company has presented over 6,000 productions in a 12 year touring record of 22 national tours covering over a million miles. The company was founded in 1952 by Phyllis Beardsley Boker.

The program is under sponsorship of St. Margaret's Guild. The sponsors say only 250 tickets to the performance will be available and are emphasizing that they "do not want to just sell the tickets, they are seeking full attendance."

Ordered to Dismantle Children's Tree House

LONDON (AP) — The Wanstead and Woodford Town Council has ordered John Ludlow to dismantle a tree house built for his two children.

"It's ridiculous," said Ludlow 41. "I've been told I didn't get permission from the Town Council. Mind you, the tree house is on my own property, in my own garden."

A spokesman for the council said Ludlow didn't get permission from the Planning Committee, as required by law, and neighbors had complained about the tree house.

Ludlow built the house for his son Richard, 10, and daughter, Brenda, 8.

"It's an eyesore and I complained to the council," said Joan Roberts, a neighbor.

"Anyway, it's particularly annoying when we are in our garden to have the Ludlow children running around the platform of their tree house making all sorts of noises and firing off toy guns."

Ludlow said he might appeal the order.

Assassination Anniversary Ceremonies

WASHINGTON (AP) — One week from Sunday, the first anniversary of President John F. Kennedy's assassination, a steady procession of visitors from near and far will stop at his grave in Arlington National Cemetery to place wreaths.

First in line when the cemetery opens at 7:30 a.m. will be a group from St. Margaret's Church of the Bronx, New York. The last wreath of the day will be placed at 5 p.m. by a group from the St. Vincent Academy of Savannah, Ga.

In between, 19 other persons or groups, including West German Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder, will place wreaths at the grave at half-hour intervals, except that two will be placed during one half hour in the morning.

"This schedule is subject to amendment to accommodate members of the late president's immediate family, should they desire," said a spokesman for the Washington military district.

So far the Kennedy family has not indicated to officials if any members of the family will be at Arlington that day.

"We can only assume that Mrs. Kennedy will be there, but there's nothing firm yet," the spokesman said.

Among those listed is the presidential helicopter detachment — the group that carried Kennedy from the White House to nearby airfield and also took him on other short hops.

So far, 7.56 million people have visited the grave.

The First World War

December 1914: 15

Illustrated By John Lane

Written By PHILIP VAN DOREN STERN for Newspaper Enterprise Association

When the tragic year 1914 ended, the German army was occupying northern France and was holding its own on the Eastern Front. But its plans for a quick victory had gone wrong. It now had to wait out the bitter winter when cold and snow would add to the misery of soldiers in the trenches.

Hundreds of thousands had already been killed on the far-flung battlefields, while hordes of wounded filled Europe's already overcrowded hospitals. Homeless refugees, widows and orphans were everywhere, forlorn, clothes in tatters and always hungry.

A wave of death and destruction had rolled across the land, but no one was winning, nor could anyone hope to win at this stage. A long drawn out war of attrition had begun. All that mattered now was to outlast the enemy.

To replace soldiers who would soon die in combat, fresh armies were being raised. And munitions were being turned out in astronomical quantities, for this new type of fighting was using up explosives, metal and men at an alarming rate.

But nothing about the war seemed alarming to the United States. It was too far away for that. Most of the tourists had returned safely home where their stories of what was happening abroad were received with incredulity. Even the U.S. Army was not alarmed, for it was making no plans to increase its force of less than 100,000 men. It had some automobiles, many wagons, horses and mules, and just 17 airplanes. The Navy, however, was next to England's and Germany's in strength. But for aerial warfare it had only three flying boats.

Most Americans were opposed to the idea of "preparedness." They said that an army of millions could be recruited overnight if needed. But they ignored the fact that such troops would be too green to fight against battle-trained European veterans. And they would have no arms, for weapons take time to make.

During the last few months of 1914, a young American songwriter was working on a sentimental ballad that was to become enormously popular the next year. Its title was "I Didn't Raise My Boy to Be a Soldier."

Conviction Is Reversed In Dove Case

DENVER (AP)—The 10th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals has reversed the conviction of Joey Aiuppa, Chicago mobster, in a Kansas dove-hunting case.

Aiuppa was arrested in October, 1962, at his home by federal game agents who found 563 mourning doves in his car.

A court spokesman said the conviction was thrown out on grounds that the search and seizure were conducted without a search warrant.

The doves had been shot during a hunting trip near Pittsburg, Kan. The limit of birds in 1962 was 24.

Aiuppa was convicted in federal district court in Kansas City, Kan., last August of illegal possession and transportation of the doves.

He was sentenced to three months in jail, fined $1,000 and costs, and was placed on probation for two years. He remained free on bond pending the appeal.

Newell, A. George, U. S. attorney for Kansas, said Friday night he would prosecute the case again unless the court's opinion leaves no ground for further action. George said he probably wouldn't receive a copy of the opinion until some time next week.

London's Pall all is so called from a French ball game "paille-maille," played there during the 17th century.

4-H Round-Up

OWEN FOX

Pettis County Extension Youth Agent

Dates Ahead

Monday night, Nov. 23 — Pettis County 4-H Council meeting, Courthouse, 7:30 p.m.

4-H Recognition Night

We were pleased to see a good turn out for the Pettis County 4-H Recognition Night Program. There were not quite as many attending as last year, though. We were proud of the several 4-H members receiving outstanding 4-H awards. There were 83 different 4-H members receiving 129 awards. This is in addition to the adult awards and the club awards.

Each 4-H member receiving an award should feel proud of their accomplishments. This is something they have earned. This is something 4-H members have done by themselves under the guidance of volunteer adult 4-H leaders and their parents too. For example, if the parents or 4-H leaders filled out the Standard Report Forms or application forms for awards for the 4-H members, then the award should have gone to the parents or to the 4-H leader. This is the same thing concerning 4-H records to be filled out at the end of each year. The 4-H member is to fill out the project record, otherwise, this is not their accomplishment.

The 4-H clubs have done a good job this year in their 4-H work. There were 74 4-H members under the guidance and leadership of 201 adult volunteer leaders. The county-wide 4-H completion was 86.5 per cent. There were several clubs receiving blue ribbon seals.

4-H Junior Leadership

If you are age 14 and over, why not check to see if you are eligible to become a 4-H Junior Leader. You enroll in this project in your club just as you would any other 4-H project.

The requirements to be a Junior Leader are as follows: (1) Be 14 years of age before Jan. 1, 1965: (2) Completed two years of 4-H club work; (3) Be willing to help your club and yourself in a phase of Junior Leader work that you select; and (4) Make a written plan of what you plan to do in your phase and send one copy to the University Extension Center by April 1.

Here are some of the phases you may select: (1) Project phase — assist one of the project leaders; (2) Activity phase — be chairman or help an activity committee in Health, Recreation, Courtesies, Community Improvement, Grooming, First Aid, Safety or Wildlife Conservation; (3) Organization — help community leader, assist younger members with records or demonstrations, etc.; (4) Citizenship; (5) Visual Aids — take the movie projector training at the Boonslick Library so that you can show films in your club; and (6) Others.

Contact your 4-H community leader about the phase to choose, secure a Junior Leader book and start making your plan. An adult advisor will be selected to help you with your plan.

Dividends of 4-H

The dividends of 4-H work are rewarding.

Through 4-H, boys and girls acquire useful information based on practical application of projects which relate to everyday living.

They have an opportunity to make new friends, share experiences with other boys and girls and learn to cooperate in work and play. These opportunities come about through local club meeting, educational tours, county 4-H camps, participation in county events which include exhibiting, judging, demonstrations, share-the-fun.

They learn to make decisions based on sound judgment. Many opportunities for decision making are found in assuming the responsibilities of a 4-H project and cooperating with a larger group in a common cause.

They develop leadership qualities by enrolling in the Junior Leader project and by assuming positions of leadership with the club program.

They have the opportunity to explore career possibilities and learn of opportunities to continue their education.

They learn to use their leisure time usefully and profitably in project work, group efforts and wholesome recreation.

Fire Truck Is Involved In Accident

The East Sedalia fire truck, a 1962 Mack, was involved in an accident while enroute to a blaze in the 700 block of West Seventh about 1:20 p.m. Friday. Fire destroyed a shed, nearly made a complete loss of a garage and damaged two houses. The truck accident occurred at Broadway and Grand.

According to the police investigation made of the accident, the firetruck, driven north on Grand after negotiating a right turn onto Grand by Frank D. Sloan, 40, 1717 West 18th, was in collision with a 1963 Dodge parked headed north owned by Claud Allen Cooper, 32, 1806 South Prospect.

City firemen arrived to find a shed at the rear of the E. J. Green residence, 717 West Seventh, already consumed by the flames and the timbers collapsing. Firefighters used several hose lines and were able to douse the blaze before an adjoining garage on the Dr. F. B. Long property, 723 West Seventh, was completely destroyed.

The flames, however, had licked up on to the Green home —a two story apartment residence — and severely scorched the rear portion of the house. After firemen had the fire out the aerial truck was brought in to investigate smoke still seeping from the attic of the Green residence.

Firemen were mystified as to how the blaze gained such headway at mid-day. The smoke could be seen clearly from the downtown area and along West Broadway.

Green said he was taking a nap when an unidentified passerby called him to the door and informed him the shed was ablaze. About the same time Irwin Raut, 703 West Seventh, was alerted of the fire and he apparently turned in the first alarm.

E. J. Green, 717 West Seventh, $1,200 to the house and garage; Dr. F. B. Long, 723 West Seventh, $500 to the garage; Mrs. Maybelle Loofburrow, 712 West Broadway, $100 to the garage; Robert S. Johnson, 720 West Broadway, slight damage to the garage; the apartment building at 715 West Seventh, slight damage due to blistering in the rear of the building.

BOY SCOUTS Ricky Huddleston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Huddleston; Leland Sellers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sellers; and James Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wright, all members of Troup 59 of Wesley Church, received The God and Country Award, Sunday, Nov. 8. George E. Sparling, pastor of Wesley Methodist Church is pictured with the boys.

Discard Talk Limits For Party Lines

WATERVILLE, N.Y. (AP)—The talkers became shouters and a telephone company's plan to limit party-line conversations to eight minutes will be dropped.

The Chenango-Unadilla Telephone Corp. installed a cut-off device on party lines in this hamlet last month when a dial system went into use.

When long-winded talkers neared the eight-minute mark a buzzer would sound and the connection was cut.

The company's northern district manager, Robert C. Lindquist, said the enforced brevity will be ended Monday because those disliking it were more numerous and more vocal.

Nolan Holman Tells WMS Of Stay In Korea

Nolan Holman was special guest speaker for day circles of First Baptist Woman's Missionary Society Nov. 9 at the church. He spoke of his military service in Korea and illustrated his talk with pictures.

Holman told of living conditions in Korea, about the children and what servicemen did to try to help orphans around the base where he was stationed. He also discussed the country's climate and food. Koreans, Holman said, are eager to learn and are gracious. It was his opinion that Christian missions in Korea help fulfill spiritual needs of the people.

Concluding the program, Mrs. Nona Clagett gave a report on Korean religions.

Mrs. Howard Gwinn, president, presided at the business session. Special emphasis was given on the Lottie Moon Christmas offering and Week of Prayer for December. Appreciation was expressed for help of the women in activities of the church.

Mrs. Terry Pile gave Call to Prayer. Roll call of circles was read by Mrs. Dale Miley. Mrs. Clarence Sutherlin read Bible meditation.

Communist Bank Grows In London

LONDON (AP) — The fastest expanding bank in London is run by Russian Communists.

It does business on fully traditional lines with the avowed aim of turning a profit — and it does, indicating a Communist institution can flourish in capitalist surroundings.

The Moscow Narodny (People's) Bank was founded here as a branch of a Moscow bank back in czarist days. When the Bolsheviks took over, they had it incorporated under British law.

Moscow Narodny started out cautiously in the heady world of capitalist high finance. Its first modest office overlooked leafy Finsbury Circus, several blocks from the heart of the City, London's financial section. Its business was confined largely to finding credits for then almost nonexistent British-Soviet trade.

In a few years the Russians moved their bank to larger quarters on Moorgate, just the toss of a ruble from the Bank of England.

Last June, with its business booming after the removal of embargoes on much East-West trade, Moscow Narodny moved to a new eight-story steel and glass structure on the approach to London Bridge.

The main hall is like that of any British bank — black and white marble, a gold mosaic wall, lots of polished mahogany. Discreet gold emblems on the plate-glass windows proclaim: MNB — The Bank for East-West Trade.

Most of the staff of 200, including clerks and cashiers, are British. So is General Manager Cyril Dicks — "You dont' have to be a Communist to work here." The over-all boss is a jovial-looking Russian, Andrei Doubonossov, and there are one or two other Russians in the top executive posts.

Moscow Narodny's money comes from the Soviet state banks and those of the satellite countries. It is used to purchase goods from Britain and the Commonwealth — Malaysian rubber, Australian wool. In reverse it finances sales of Russian timber and furs and hides.

On its retail side the bank pays diplomats and other Russians working in Britain. It has a few English accounts, mainly held by exporters. Any Englishman producing the proper references may open an account.

Last year the bank doubled its capital to $11.2 million. Assets rose from $291 million to $582 million. Profits after taxes were $1.29 million, providing enough for a dividend of $1.12 million to its state shareholders back in the Soviet Union.

Although Moscow Narodny claims to have financed more than half the $2.4-billion trade between the Soviet bloc and the sterling area, it is seeking to broaden its business.

"We have excess funds to employ and it is naturally best to do so at a profit," said Chairman Doubonossov early this year. "It is not good business to have all our money tied up in one activity, such as East-West trade."

The bank has invested in British government securities to the tune of almost $4 million.

'Top Dress' Featured At Spring Show

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — When the models stepped out of their dresses in Pauline Trigere's showroom not an eyebrow was lifted: They wore other dresses underneath.

The idea of wearing two dresses at the same time, a scheme which played a major part in her spring collection Thursday, was Miss Trigere's reaction to the current tendency by American women to wear not even enough o fone dress.

Models flipped off skirts and peeled away jackets on costumes called "top suits." There they stood looking ready for the cocktail hour in billowing chiffon or brilliantly colored silk prints with cowl necklines or giant scarves.

In this teaseless strip act, "top dress" was the name Miss Trigere conceived for a sleeveless V-necked wool which, with a shrug of the shoulders, fell away in favor of a voluminous soft pink silk number.

The quick-change artistry was just one aspect of the show. There were touches of Middle East influence as dark-eyed misses in bright silk draped matching harem veils over their heads.

There was a bit of victorianism in the lavish use of pin stripes, throat-hugging collars with black ribbon ties and jackets and dresses with lapel neck openings cut in a "V" to the waist and worn over modest dickeys.

But most costumes were as French and chic as Miss Trigere herself in her white mink dress.

Internal Conflicts

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

A month has passed since Nikita S. Khrushchev was abruptly dumped from the Kremlin leadership. That action possibly created more problems than it solved. Already, clearly visible internal conflicts hint at more power struggles in the offing.

One can almost see the tugging and pulling in vaguely contradictory statements being put out by leading figures in the new regime, suggesting confusion at the summit.

It would be astonishing if there were not widespread nervousness in the U.S.S.R. among the rank and file of the 11-million-strong Communist party and the big and growing middle class whose influence became a political factor in the Khrushchev era.

Khrushchev's removal Oct. 14 was a power maneuver, apparently aimed at reversing some of his economic policies and redressing some of Moscow's setbacks in world communism because of the Soviet-Chinese dispute.

The present regime looks transitional. If the forces which ousted Khrushchev are to prevail, there must be a housecleaning of many of those the former first party secretary entrenched in the party structure throughout the country.

Indeed, there is little chance of doing anything positive about the dispute with Red China unless such a housecleaning takes place. The Chinese and their allies make it clear they believe Khrushchev was only one of many "modern revisionists" leading the U.S.S.R. toward liberalization of Marxist-Leninist doctrine.

The housecleaning could be difficult — possibly even dangerous. It ould probably require cracking down on liberal tendencies in the economy, in the arts and even in agriculture.

The new first secretary, Leonid I. Brezhnev, has tossed tokens of good faith to an anxious public, indicating adherence to the general lines of the 20th and 22nd party congresses. These, respectively, involved de-Stalinization and raising industrial production in all spheres.

Similar tokens were tossed to the public in 1953 when Georgi Malenkov's nervous regime took over after Stalin. It promised abundance of consumer goods within a short period. The promise was not kept and Malenkov was soon pushed aside.

Even while Brezhnev is promising to ease the lot of farmer and consumer, Pravda is saying repeatedly that if there is to be a growth in consumer goods production, it must be "on the basis of expansion of heavy industry."

The public is told the policy of seeking relaxed tensions abroad is to be continued. But int he background the Chinese — as part of their price for muting their argument with Moscow — demand a Red unity which will make "the U.S. imperialists shudder."

The Soviet military speaks of "peaceful coexistence," with a different tone from Khrushchev's. Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's order of the day for the Bolshevik anniversary supported peaceful coexistence but added that "aggressive imperialist forces" in the world meant the U.S.S.R. had to strengthen its defense might to the utmost.

This means no cutbacks in heavy industry or military spending, and more waiting for consumer goods.

Party chief Brezhnev evidently is required to echo this line, but even as he speaks, foreigners are quietly reassured that it is not so belligerent as it sounds. It is as if party leaders were being pushed into a harder policy toward the United States against their will.

The collective party leadership consists of eight Presidium members — Brezhnev, Alexei N. Kosygin, Mikhail Suslov, A. I. Mikoyan, Nikolai Podgorny, Dmitri Polyansky, Gennadi Voronov and A. P. Kirillenko. The military appears to have much power and influence at this moment.

Another source of power, however, is the Committee of State Security (KGB) under A. N. Shelepin who, at 46, is a figure to reckon with. His influence could help bring to the top a man of his own generation, 47-year-old Polyansky, a skilled administrator and prototype of today's technocrat. Together, Shelepin and Polyansky could make effective use of pressures generated by public demands for a better share of the economy.

The military-conservative alliance seems to want sharp changes in Soviet policy, a harder anti-United States line to mollify the Red Chinese and bring at least a show of world Community unity. But many conflicts are involved.

If the U.S.S.R. backs down too much before Peking's demands, it could alienate Communists in the West. If Moscow tries to reestablish some aspects of Stalinism, it would hurt European parties who would see prospects for political gains shattered. It would cause unrest in the Communist-ruled East European nations which heavily supported the Khrushchev line.

So the new regime seems caught in a squeeze between anxiety to muffle the world Communist dispute and dangers involved in meeting Peking's price for silence. Probably a world meeting of Communist leaders would do little but aggravate the problems.

Break-Ins Are Reported To Police

A thief or thieves entered two residences in the Country Club Addition either Thursday evening after 5 p.m. or Friday prior to 7:47 p.m. Entered were the B. A. Fisher residence at 1636 Country Club and the William Greer residence, 1641 Country Club.

Initial reports indicated that nothing was missing from the Greer residence, but according to an investigation conducted by Chief William E. Miller, Assistant Chief Charles Knapp, and Officer Lester Williams, a quantity of articles were removed from the Fisher residence.

Among the items missing from the Fisher residence were $75-$80 in change; one 30-.06 rifle; a 410 guage Winchester pump gun; a 12 guage Winchester skeet gun; a .22 caliber Browning rifle; a .22 caliber Colt pistol; two tackle boxes and four rods and reels. The investigation reflected that entrance was gained by cutting a screen of the west window. The thief or thieves left through the south door.

Entrance was gained to the Greer residence by forcing a screen door on the east side of the house and then forcing the door. Investigating officers discovered the Greer break-in.

A Slide Rule Shrine....

We Americans are great ones to honor people.

We hold special days and nights and dinners in tribute to.

We erect fountains and statues and monuments in memory of.

We name bridges and highways and dams and theaters and zoos and hospitals and museums to keep ever in memory.

We create parks and malls and bridle paths and wooded vales as living memorials to.

We even name automobiles and ships after.

Almost everyone of distinction has been recognized. Everyone, that is, except the statistician.

This is a strange oversight, indeed, in view of the fact that we couldn't maintain our amazing level of miscellaneous knowledge for five minutes if the statistical whizzes weren't constantly breaking down everything into little bitsy facts or fragments thereof. Including the oddest things.

Do you need to know, for example, how much lint is included in all the dust, dirt and refuse accumulated in New York City in a year? Some statistician has it for you. Why, no one knows. But he has it.

The statistician reaches his peak in baseball. It's not enough for the fan to know a player's batting or fielding average. The figure fiends can tell you exactly what any left-handed hitter you may name is hitting against any right-handed pitcher, or any combination or vice versas.

They know to a split second how long it takes a right-handed or left-handed batter to get to first base if (a) he has been out late the night before or (b) if he has gone to bed real early. (It makes a difference, they say.)

No matter what bit of odd-ball information you may want, you can bet that some foresighted painstaking statistical genius has dug it up for you —even before you ever dreamed you would ever want it. Or even if you don't want it.

So how about everybody chipping in to erect the biggest doggone slide rule anyone has ever seen as a national shrine to the unsung hero who provides all the impressive facts and percentages we toss around as though we invented them?

It figures, doesn't it?

"It's a Hoss of Another Color, Suh!"

FINDING THE WAY

Meet Issues Midstream

BY RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Among the needless worries that I take on from time to time is that of planning bridges. A very large and graceful one has just been erected near our city. I was sure that those long graceful arches were not going to meet in the middle. The fact that they did reinforces my admiration of the engineers and the builders.

It also causes me to wonder about the many times we fail to meet in the arching causes of life.

The reviewer of a new play on Broadway said of one act, "the two players were dead planets in orbit." Think of the times in home, in school, in government or in public affairs we all seem to be missing each other, never gearing into the problems, never meshing into the things that matter most.

The anguished plaint of the father in the Darien case is to the point. These parents, symbols of so many in our time, were confronting the public and private consequences of their behavior and their example. Said the one father: "We didn't know that it was illegal to serve liquor to teen-agers." He probably didn't know. But also he had not discovered his own responsibility to these young people. This is the overarching moral problem. Somehow there is no bridge left to cross over.

Reuel Howe, who has done an excellent study of the meaning of dialogue, says many of us desire to rid everyday existence of any claims of the holy. He tells of a member of a congregation who didn't want a certain minister because he wouldn't concentrate his religion into Sunday. This member wanted someone who wouldn't make him deal with the complications of this religious faith for the rest of the week.

Says Dr. Howe: "Contemporary man is often interested in religion and the Bible only in abstract terms and does not want his life to be confronted by the Word. He is afraid of confrontation because he cannot stand revelation."

It probably seems pious and certainly very comfortable to sing with the lovely lass in Browning's poem, "God's in his heaven, all's right with the world." The truth is that God never stays in his heavens. He has a way of breaking loose from the "house arrest" under which we place him. He refuses to stay at home.

The issues confronting the mind of man range from the political to the philosophical, from the exploring of space to the understanding of ourselves. There are swirling rapids and dangerous currents to be bridged. We don't build those bridges by silencing those with whom we disagree, by ignoring those whom we would rather forget, or by listening to our own voice instead of to an eternal Word.

We are not "dead planets in orbit." We are living persons, and there is an eetrnal Word, and a reconciling love. To begin to understand that is to meet the issue midstream!

INDIANAPOLIS NEWS: It's Your Money. — Congressman Richard L. Roudebush, R-Ind., uses this to illustrate his point that Americans are fed up with the foreign aid program.

"The World Bank, to which the U.S. is the largest single contributor, using funds taken from the American taxpayers, ladled out with no trouble $35 million to Communist Yugoslavia to modernize that country's railroads.

"At the same time, the Erie Railroad announced it was unable to meet its New Jersey property tax bill of $4.5 million because of financial difficulty. The Interstate Commerce Commission refused to approve a government guarantee loan of $5 million to the railroad."

Who's Got a Coin?

Mania For Coin Collecting Puts Change In Big Demand

By MAGGIE SAVOY
Associated Press Writer

In Monroe, Wis., bank officials doled out 20,000 wooden nickels. Before Uncle Sam could tell them they couldn't do this, 19,550 had disappeared from circulation. Some have turned up in coin shops. Price: one dime.

In New York the other day a dealer wrote out a check for $17 in exchange for 91 cents worth of this year's coins.

What mad, mad world is this where some banks will give you a dollar bill for 98 cents in change; or offer trading stamps for cash. Where a single shiny penny (1932D) will sell for $18; a dime (1916D new) as much as $700. The letter on a coin indicates where it was minted: D means Denver; S, San Francisco; O, New Orleans; and P or no letter, Philadelphia.

What craziness is this when coin dealers can pay 1,000 times the face value of a roll of nickels, and still sell for a profit?

There's a boom in coin collecting that some dealers say has reached the dizzy heights of mania.

It has increased the ranks of numismatists — coin collectors — to an estimated 12 million; coin clubs at the rate of one a day; zoomed circulation of one weekly trade paper from a few thousands to 172,000 in four years; and has kids and tycoons alike squirreling away small change until the entire nation is short.

Although both Philadelphia and Denver mints — presently the only two in the nation — are stamping out new coins on a day-and-night schedule — 8 billion pieces this year — small change is becoming scarcer and scarcer.

The great Chase Manhattan Bank in New York is reduced to pleading with employes of its 130 branches to bring in change from their piggy banks. Placards at grocery checkout counters exhort, "Please have exact change." Ministers are urged to bank their Sunday collections on Monday mornings. Signs at tellers' windows read, "Wanted: your extra coins to help us stem the current coin shortage."

Buying and selling coins has become big business.

Coin dealers, numismatists, coin magazine publishers, bankers and Treasury officials disagree on how and why all this happened.

Some lay the recent boom to human nature. "It's a human trait to collect," says Jack Friedberg, president of Capital Coin Co., which services coin shops in 38 department stores around the country.

Thomas J. Wass, president of the National Association of Coin Dealers, blames much of today's coin shortage on the massive quantities locked up in millions of machines — parking meters, candy dispensers, cigarette machines, laundries, telephone boxes, changemakers — that pock our sidewalks, offices

Some dealers think the Kennedy commemorative half dollar, saved by millions for sentimental reasons — and still not in general circulation even after 131 million have been minted — lured many more to the hobby. "When people saw they could get a dollar for a half dollar, they decided this was one dandy hobby," said one.

The demand for silver in industry, for electronic and photographic purposes, upped the price of silver. Today some coins, such as the 1942-1945 nickels, are worth melting for the silver in them. Melt coins away, and this means more holes in collectors' boards. Today a complete set of nickels which brought $7 four years ago will bring $35.

The high prices worry many coin dealers. "It's pricing kids right out of the hobby," said Friedberg. "What will happen when no new hobbyists come to market?"

Still, coin collectors keep joining the ranks, with 15 million estimated by 1965.

LBJ Helpers Want To Cash In

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—This is the season for the cashers-in-of - political - chips — the period when everyone who lifted a finger for LBJ in the election campaign now wants his reward.

One chip-casher-in is Sen. Bob Bartlett, the sometimes erudite Democrat from Alaska, who is pushing the appointment of a young, scarcely-dry-behind-the-ears lawyer to be U.S. attorney in Alaska.

His candidate, Richard McVeigh, was admitted to the bar only in 1963, practiced law about eleven months, and didn't get a single vote for his proposed job from the bar association. Its members endorsed Gerry Shortell, a World War II vet with important experience in the Justice Department, instead.

However, young McVeigh worked as a clerk in Sen. Bartlett's office while studying law, so the senator considers him highly qualified.

Another chip-casher is gorgeous George Smathers of Florida, who wants his assistant, John O'Keefe, appointed to the U.S. tax court. O'Keefe has had little tax experience. Several other career Internal Revenue experts, highly qualified, are being pushed by the Treasury.

In Jacksonville, Fla., last month, after President Johnson had reassured the American people that they had nothing to worry about from Khrushchev's exit, Sen. Smathers, speaking before the Florida League of Municipalities, said just the opposite.

Reported the Florida Times-Union: "U.S. Sen. George Smathers cast doubts on President Johnson's assertion that the United States has nothing to fear from the reshuffled government in Moscow."

Turned the Other Cheek

No. 1 turner-of-the-cheek today is Arthur Larson, formerly Ike's chief of U.S. Information. During the Eisenhower administration, Larson, a moderate Republican, made a pro-Republican speech in Hawaii which aroused the wrath of the then Senate majority leader, one Lyndon B. Johnson.

Johnson took the floor of the Senate, denounced Larson, then proceeded to slash his appropriation so drastically that Larson, for the good of the U.S. Information Agency, resigned. Johnson had effectively and definitely put him out of commission.

Recently Larson has been back in Washington with the Citizens Committee for Civic Responsibility, working for Johnson by combatting the right-wing radio tirades of the so-called "educators" and fundamentalist "preachers."

Political Pot-Shots

LBJ has promised American Indian leaders to open job corps camps on U.S. Indian reservations to help alleviate their terrible poverty. . . . Congressman Ross Bass of Tennessee, who voted for the civil rights bill, was a shoo-in for the Senate. Sen. Albert Gore, who voted against civil rights, did some sweating. . . . Congressman William Miller, the would-be vice president, probably would have been defeated if he had run for re-election in his home district. It went strong for Johnson.

Draft for Schoolteachers

With President Johnson launching a study for ending the draft and Sen. Goldwater wanting to end it immediately, the United States might take a look at what is happening to drafted men in Iran.

There, the Shah has set up a sort of draftees' peace corp, actually called the "education corps," by which draftees can serve as teachers instead of soldiers.

In Iran, 84 per cent of the children in cities go to school, but in isolated rural areas only 24 per cent. The Shah is remedying this by training about 200,000 draftees to go into the villages and establish schools. They can elect to do this instead of military service.

The Diplomatic Pouch

American agents are convinced the Chinese Communists are trying to take over the Congo, not merely harass the west by their support of the Congolese rebels. The Belgians and French believe the Chinese are just trying to stir up mischief. But the Americans have obtained evidence that the Chinese want the Congo as a satellite. They want the copper and cobalt in the richest mineral area in the world. . . . The Chinese Communists have reported a record harvest. However, the increase in farm production still hasn't kept up with the bursting population. (Prior to communism the Chinese warlords let five to ten million people die annually through floods or pestilence.) . . . Chiang Kai-Shek has asked the United States for nuclear weapons to counteract the nuclear threat from Red China. . . . The Chinese Communists have turned off their anti - Soviet campaign, apparently awaiting the result of Premier Chou En-Lai's visit to Moscow. However, tiny Albania, which takes its propaganda line from Peking, has been continuing the drumbeat on Russia. . . . Mikhail Suslov, who organized the plot against Premier Khrushchev, has told diplomats that Russia cannot go on shipping arms to India to be used against another Communist country—namely China. This will be a serious blow to India. It's depended on Russia for fighter - bomber planes to defend itself against China.

MEANS OF SUPPORT—Elke Hellman is making a practical test of a new aircraft seat cushion. The cushion is said to combine comfort in the plane and lifesaving potential in the water. Developers at B. F. Goodrich say it supports an adult for an unlimited period of time.

Our Hearts Reach Out

They've bright little faces,
These children in braces,
Who clumsily go down the hall,
And watching their stride
From side to side
You're almost afraid they will fall.
And then you hear ringing
Of laughter and singing
And you'd never know by their song.
For they're always so gay
As they work and they play
As if there was not a thing wrong.
Some can't even walk,
But so happy are they
Together each day
Their whole room is light with their cheer.
Their greetings are warm
For them oft' a difficult task.
Of course it is true
There are things they can't do
But Each thing they acomplish they're proud.
And sometimes they laugh out real loud.
First steps that are made
When they are afraid
Or the using of tiny hands,
The joy they display
In the first words they say
Yes, when we look about
At the children without Handicaps such as these,
Who can jump and can run
And have so much fun
Doing whatever they please,
It's time that we show
We want them to grow
To useful young citizens, too;
To watch them advance
And give them a chance
To do things we so easily do;
For no one is certain
When a heavy dark curtain
Will fall for us or our own
Down on normal living—
So we should be giving
That we'd not fight the future alone;
Each dollar will count
To help the fund mount
For their battles are fought
With each bond that is bought
As our hearts reach the handicaps.

We the Women

Rate Yourself Whether You Are Easy to Live With

By RUTH MILLETT,
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Let's give a man a chance to answer that question. One who writes that he reads this column regularly claims that the woman who is easy to live with is the woman who:

* "Enjoys doing things on the spur of the moment. (Wives who dislike doing anything on the spur-of-the-moment can always find a ready excuse for vetoing their husband's unexpected invitations — 'My hair's a mess,' 'I haven't anything to wear,' 'It's too much trouble to try to get a baby-sitter at the last moment,' 'I've already started dinner.')

* Doesn't feel it is necessary to talk to a man constantly just because he's there — but knows that silence makes a woman more companionable than does a steady stream of chatter.

*"Has a carefully cultivated sense of timing, that tells her the best moment for imparting bad news, springing a surprise, of trying to sell her husband on an idea that is important to her.

* "Gives her husband a certain amount of privacy in small matters such as refraining from asking 'Who was that, dear?' whenever he gets a phone call, or 'What were you talking about?' whenever he has a conversation with someone else.

* "Doesn't whine, nag or sulk.

* "Finds a lot to laugh about, and has a laugh that is pleasant to hear.

* "Reacts with anger instead of hurt feelings to a quarrel.

Carry Your Own Water

By Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY—I take certain pills regularly and at definite times. Often I found that even if I had the pills, water was not always close at hand. Now I carry a plastic pill bottle in my purse full of water. I do not have to run around looking for a drinking fountain. Wonderful when shopping or on a long motor trip.

Flower lovers will love using kitchen tongs to pull dead flowers off of their plants. I particularly like this for petunias which get sticky. Also try them for pulling weeds. — MRS. E. F.

DEAR POLLY — If you cannot find the dustpan, or if you would like a disposable one, cut an aluminum foil pie plate in half, down the middle, and you have two dustpans.

Blind Lady Files Suit For Rights

NEW YORK (AP) — Not the blind, but the people who can see need help in coping with blindness, says a vivacious, blind woman who's gone to court to make her point: Where she goes, so goes her guide dog, Duchess.

"I've been thrown out of some of the best hotels, restaurants and museums in the world," Thelma Keitlen said today.

"I've been passed countless times by empty cabs.

"I've even been accused of pretending I'm blind so that I can get Duchess into the passenger compartment of airliners with me.

Her argument: State law forbids "discrimination against sightless persons accompanied by a dog guide" that would exclude them from inns, common carriers, theaters, restaurants and hotels.

She alleges that on Oct. 16 she was refused service at a restaurant when she entered with her dog. The owners said it was a misunderstanding with his hostess. Health laws ban dogs from eating places, except guide dogs. The case was postponed.

"I'm sorry to have to make an example," Mrs. Keitlen said. "But maybe if the word gets around, then people will learn what my rights are."

"Nearly every time I go to a new place that doesn't know me, I go through the same humiliation," she said. "Twenty-five per cent of a blind person's problem is adjusting and 75 per cent is getting the public to adjust."

Les Crane's Late Show A New Idea

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The classic prescription for late-evening television has been either a re-run of an old movie, or an informal variety show composed of comedy, conversation and commercials plus a little music.

Jack Paar, when he presided over NBC's "Tonight Show," sometimes observed that many of his fans could not recognize him unless they saw him between their toes.

But insomniacs and night people have greater choice. There is the week-old "Les Crane Show" on ABC.

"Television has become emasculated, particularly as far as talk shows are concerned," Crane said. "There's too much chit-chat and relaxing. If viewers want to get to sleep, they'd better not tune in my show. I'm not going to be soporific. I want to stimulate them, make them think hard and I don't care if they can't close an eye until 4 a.m."

Crane spent more than a month before the show's premiere racing around the world gathering bits and pieces of material. He scooped up taped interviews with Bertrand Russell and Kim Novak in England; caught Carroll Baker aboard the Queen Mary just before she sailed; flew to Hollywood to gather more star dust.

Crane, 30-year-old ex-disc jockey, expects to inject controversy, culture, news-makers and perhaps even a little sensationalism into late-evening television.

"I'd like to have Segovia come on and let people who think these pop singers are playing a guitar see what guitar-playing really is," he said. "I would like to gather some others, and discuss whether Hiroshima was a crime or a great service."

But whatever Crane or the competition does, the audience is limited. According to television studies, the mass audience starts to drop off from a peak at around 9 p.m. By 11, there is left a hard core of stay-awakes which numbers around 12 million.

Carson probably has an audience of around four million. Other millions are amused by the old movies, usual program fare on local stations. Crane's new show is seen on some 100 stations, while Carson has close to 180 outlets.

NBC's "Tonight," which runs along serenely and profitably, is a lineal descendant of "Broadway Open House," launched 14 years ago. It lasted long enough to make a national figure of a busty blonde called Dagmar.

Wins Her Battle For Wider Bathtub

LONDON (AP) — Joyce Norton got broader over the years. Her bathtub stayed the same width.

For a year she campaigned to persuade her landlord — the Town Council of suburban Uxbridge — to give her a new tub.

During the year three council members, two other officials and one social worker called to inspect both the tub and Mrs. Norton.

Thursday night the council's housing committee decided to install a new and broader tub.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

On this date in 1763, English surveyors Charles Mason and Jermiah Dixon arrived in Philadelphia. They established the border between Pennsylvania and Delaware, Maryland and Virginia. It later became the symbol of the line between North and South.

On this date

In 1777, the Continental Congress approved the Articles of Confederation. They became the supreme law of the land until the Constitution went into effect.

In 1806, Pike's Peak was discovered by Zebulon Montgomery Pike.

In 1873, Budapest was declared the capital of Hungary.

In 1918, Secretary of War Newton Baker gave the first order for demobilization of the U.S. Army.

In 1942 in the fifth and greatest naval action in the Solomon Islands, Adm. William Halsey's fleet smashed a Japanese attempt to regain the Guadalcanal area.

Ten years ago—U.N. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge disclosed the United States had allotted some fissionable materials to other nations for use in experimental atomic reactors.

Five years ago — U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold, ignoring Soviet protests, ordered a U.N. economic expert to join him in Laos to help study the internal crisis there.

One year ago—President John F. Kennedy told the AFL-CIO convention that "jobs are the most important domestic issue that this country faces."

Appoints Treasurer

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. John M. Dalton appointed County Treasurer H. L. Christian as clerk of the Cole County Court Friday succeeding the late William Tellman, who had been clerk 30 years.

Christian, Cole County Democratic chairman, will be succeeded as treasurer by Paul Hogg, now an agent for the Missouri Tax Commission.

Harvest Tea Held Tuesday At Wesley

The Harvest Tea which is held annually at the Wesley Methodist Church at the Thanksgiving season, was given Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 10, in the fellowship hall of Wesley Methodist Church by the Woman's Society of Christian Service of that church.

The program was presented by Mrs. George Lovercamp, who called attention to the beautiful Thanksgiving setting of a basket filled with colorful fruits and vegetables, a candle in a tall holder and an open Bible.

The basket, said Mrs. Lovercamp, holds good things, and the WSCS holds good things, too, for when we sow the seeds of right words and deeds they bear fruit. We make the best of our plans with love, kindness, sharing with others and loyalty. Thanksgiving, she said, is a time of gratitude and sincere prayer.

There is a need of good attendance, of goals and of carrying those goals through with kindness and love for all. We must share our means with those less fortunate and be thankful for our country where we may enjoy a harvest.

Mrs. Jack Gray then sang, "We Thank Thee Lord," with Mrs. Lovercamp as accompanist.

Mrs. Lovercamp closed the program by saying that the Harvest Tea had replaced the dinner and bazaar that was formerly held at this time of year and constituted many hours of work. This, too, she said, is work, but not nearly as much as the dinner and bazaar.

The guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. R. E. Taylor and Mrs. Herman Taylor.

Following the program tea, coffee and cookies were served at the tea table which was covered with an arrangement of yellow chrysanthemusm. Serving at the tea table were Mrs. George Sparling, wife of the pastor, and Mrs. R. M. Stonner.

Council Vote Next Week On Jewish Issue

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican Ecumenical Council is expected to vote approval next week of revised declarations on the Jews and religious freedom, but the declarations probably will not be promulgated as council decrees before the next session, in 1965 or 1966.

Both documents were heatedly debated in the current council session, which ends Nov. 21. They are expected to have a major effect on the Roman Catholic Church's relations with other Christians and non-Christians.

A council spokesman said Thursday the documents had been revised and that the declaration on the Jews had been strengthened to absolve Jews of any implication of deicide in Christ's Crucifixion.

"I think it is much stronger than even the first draft two years ago," said a member of the Vatican's Christian Unity Secretariat, which drafted both declarations.

As introduced, the declaration on Jews said all mankind, not Jews alone, shared blame for the Crucifixion. This phrase was omitted in a revision earlier this year which said: "All should be careful not to attribute to the Jew of our time what was committed during the Passion of Christ."

Several cardinals, including three from the United States, assailed the ommission in debate last September and urged that the original wording be restored. Middle East patriarchs opposed any declaration on the Jews because they feared a stand on the controversial issue would touch off anti-Catholic sentiment in Arab lands.

The religious freedom declaration holds that every man has the right to believe as his conscience dictates. Conservative prelates, mainly from Italy and Spain, opposed it as a danger to the Church.

While approval of the declarations is expected in the vote next week, a number of the prelates probably will approve them with reservations. These must be accompanied by written statements outlining suggested changes. Consideration of these by the Christian Unity Secretariat and possible further revision of the declarations will delay their promulgation as council decrees beyond the closing of the council session.

Laments Fact Ringo May Be Ugliest

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Harry Wilson, who has billed himself for years as the movies' ugliest man, can't stand Ringo Starr, the Beatle with the hangdog face.

"All the women go for Ringo because he is so ugly," laments Harry. "It could ruin my whole career."

For 42 years, Harry's face has graced more than 800 movies.

Producer Walter Seltzer recently hired Harry for a key scene in "The War Lord." In doing so, Seltzer paid Harry this tribute:

"In Hollywood's constant search for new faces, we mustn't overlook the fact that some faces fit their owners so exactly they seem everlastingly new. Lincoln had such a face. So did Queen Victoria. So does Harry Wilson.

"We could search the earth and find no one better able, in one quick flash of craggy ugliness, to convey the atmosphere of terror we needed."

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — One if the week's strangest cocktail parties was held at a club called "The Losers." Guests of honor were all the defendants Perry Mason had convicted in all the years the show has been on the air.

Bill Tallman, the district attorney who has yet to win a case from Burr, made it just as the last guests were leaving.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Bob Hope will be the master of ceremonies for the 11th time at the annual Academy Awards next spring.

"It means once more," says Robert, "that I'm not going to get an Oscar. And I do some of the best acting in Hollywood, smiling when all those winners come up."

Past Matrons, Patrons Meet At Kirkpatricks

Past Matrons and Patrons Club, Pettis Chapter 279, Order of the Eastern Star, met at the home of Mrs. Glenn Kirkpatrick, 1207 South Barrett, Nov. 10, with 35 present.

Following contributive dinner, the president, Leonard Hall, presided over business. Invocation was given by George Chamberlin, chaplain. Congratulations were extended to Mrs. Ross Stephens, who was recently appointed district deputy grand matron, 36th district, OES.

A report was given on members or family members who were ill. Plans were made to remember chapter shut-ins Christmas.

Committee on revision of by-laws reported new books were completed and ready for distribution. Hall thanked the committee, Mrs. William Reed, chairman, Mrs. Howard Gwinn and Mrs. John Staubli. He also thanked Mrs. Staubli for memeographing and assembling books. A committee was appointed to assist at chapter installation reception Dec. 12.

Games were played.

Assisting the hostess were: Mr. and Mrs. W. Z. Heady, Mr. and Mrs. Porter Duffett, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Kirkpatrick, Mrs. Florence Elliot and Mr. and Mrs. William L. Reed.

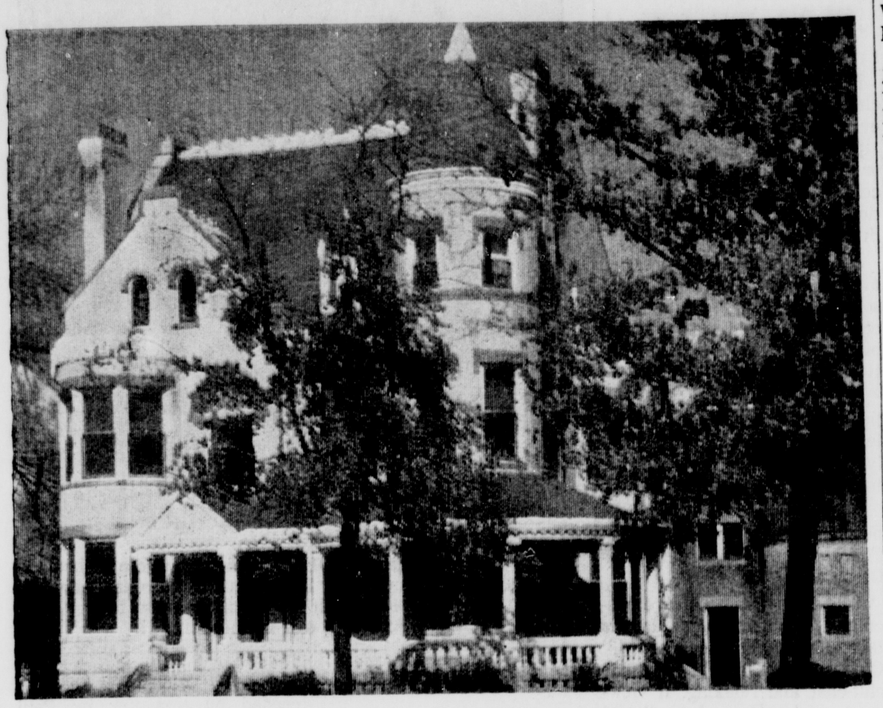
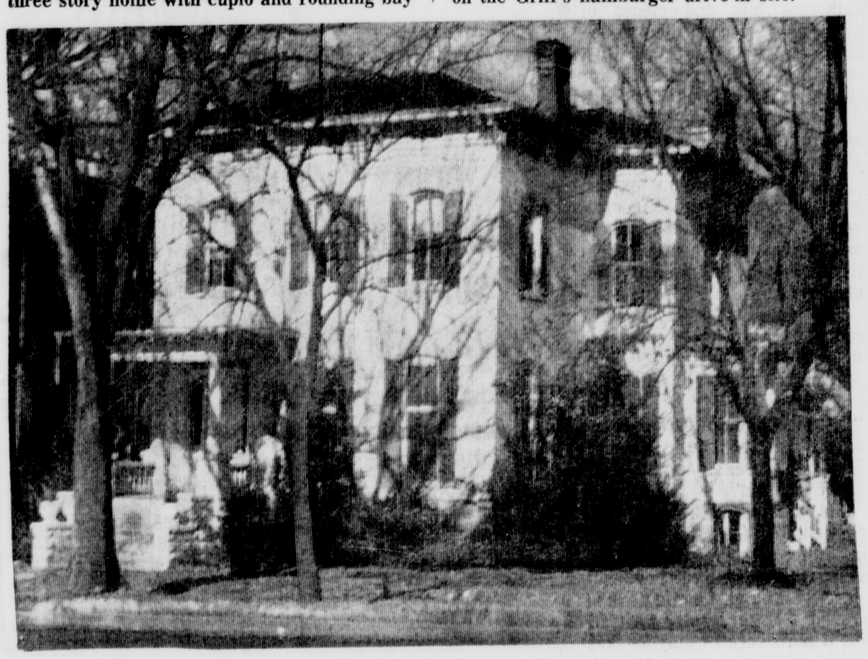
Sedalia Land Marks to be Razed



THE BUFF BRICK home at the northwest corner of Broadway and Massachusetts which is soon to be torn down was built by Samuel H. Beiler, owner of the Beiler Wholesale Grocers. He came to Sedalia in 1866 and went in with his brother in the Wholesale Business. The Beiler Wholesale House which he operated until his death was where Whitaker and Co., is located at 301 East Main. The three story home with cuplo and rounding bay windows is still beautiful today. It has been known as the Powell home for many years. After the death of Mr. Beiler it was purchased by William H. Powell, sometime early in the century. The Powell family had resided on the southwest corner of Third and Harrison, prior to that time. Later it became the property of Mrs. Dollie L. Bailey and was made into apartments. The house is located on the Griff's hamburger drive-in site.



THE LARGE BRICK home at 209 West Broadway, which was recently sold by Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Rich and will soon be torn down, was built by J. H. Mertz, a druggist and co-owner, later becoming sole owner, of the Mertz and Hale Drug Store which was located for many years at 210 South Ohio. When the health of Mr. and Mrs. Mertz began to fail their daughter, Anna, and her husband, Charles H. Bard, who for many years was a Sedalia jewler, moved into the home with them and lived there the rest of their lives, continuing to make it their home after the death of her parents. Mr. Bard died first and a few years later Mrs. Bard died in the late 1940's after which one of the largest auction sales Sedalia ever saw was held there. When Mr. and Mrs. Rich bought the home it was the first time it had been out of the family since it was built. The house is located on the Griff's hamburger drive-in site.

Computers Added To Math Class

Some 300,000 high school and junior college students will have the opportunity to learn firsthand about the age of automation. And their teachers will be freed from much of the paperwork that now hinders classroom work.

Core of the program will be a data processing center that will open in July 1965 in the Sacramento Office of Education. A smaller pilot center was tested earlier in Richmond, Calif., schools.

"Students will have an opportunity to gain an understanding of the potential and implications of computers in our complicated world," said Dr. Alvin Grossman, a data processing expert for the California Department of Education. "Also, the computing center will allow youngsters to learn about employment opportunities related to the machines."

Rafferty said courses in programming and systems analysis and design will be an immediate outgrowth of the center's activities.

The electronic computer complex, developed by the Honeywell Corp., will serve another important function — it will ease the load of paperwork and reports that occupy the time of teachers, counselors and administrators.

All connected with the program agree that the system could save the nation's taxpayers millions of dollars by eliminating duplication of data processing services at the local school level.

They anticipate that within the next five to 10 years as many as 10 regional electronic computing centers will be in operation throughout California, hopefully setting a pattern for the rest of the nation.

Primary funding will come from local school districts which will contribute 90 per cent of the budget, with the federal government kicking in 10 per cent. Initial cost will be $200,000 for the Sacramento County complex.

Jap Goldwater Man Resigns Position

TOKYO (AP)—The Japanese government official who campaigned for Sen. Barry Goldwater in Hawaii has resigned.

Yoshiro Kikuchi, 74, gave up the post of vice parliamentary minister of science and technology on Nov. 2, the government announced today. Yazo Kotsuke, 69, succeeded him.

Blind Boy Fascinated By Weather

VALLEY STREAM, N.Y. (AP) — Russell Isaacson is an 11-year-old boy with a fascination for weather conditions he has felt but never seen in his lifetime of blindness.

Russell's parents — Mr. and Mrs. Karl Isaacson — said he began to show a deep interest in the weather almost from the time he first learned to talk.

"He was always asking one of us or his brother or sister what the weather was," Isaacson recalled. "He used to keep posted on the weather while at school by asking his classmates what the weather was."

Several weeks ago, he was taught how to dial a telephone by feel. A few days later, he learned that up-to-the-minute weather reports and forecasts could be obtained by dialing a certain public service number.

"We didn't know it at the time," the father said, "but Russell was dialing this number day after day and getting the latest reports.

"A few weeks ago, he found that other cities have the same service and he learned that the numbers were the same except that you had to dial an area code number first."

"Last week, we got our telephone bill and it had over $20 worth of out of town calls which we knew we didn't make," Isaacson said. "When we called the telephone company we found out that they were all made to weather report numbers in other cities."

The Isaacsons asked their son if he might have made the calls.

"Right away he said he had called those places," Isaacson said. "He said he thought the service was free there just like for local weather. He felt terrible about it all."

When the telephone company learned who had made the calls and why, they canceled the charges, Isaacson said.

What about Russell now?

"Oh, he feels better now that he knows we didn't have to pay and he promised to keep his calls local. After all, we have plenty of weather right here."

With Election Over

Relaxation, Reassessment Mood Over United States

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Johnson spent a quiet week on the LBJ Ranch in Texas, playing host to Texas friends and such varied out-of-staters as Gov. Edmund Brown of California, Eddie Fisher and Milton Berle.

On Thursday he welcomed Gustavo Diaz Ordaz, who will become president of Mexico on Dec. 1. During the two-day visit, the two presidents-elect talked over mutual problems. President Johnson vowed that "we will resolv e them with peace, reason and justice to each other."

And far away on the white sands of Montego Bay on the island of Jamaica, the losers gathered to treat their wounds with applications of golf, swimming and just plain lolling.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, crusehd in the largest Democratic landslide since the days of Franklin D. Roosevelt, was at the Royal Caribbean Hotel.

A mile down the beach at the Half Moon Hotel were Dean Burch, chairman of the Republican National Committee; Denison Kitchel, Goldwater's campaign director; John Grenier, executive director of the Republican National Committee, and Rep. William E. Miller, Goldwater's vice presidential running-mate.

Burch was insisting he would not resign, as some other party leaders had demanded, at least not before a meeting of the national committee, which he had called for January. The others in the party were saying nothing ofr publication, but in Washington and elsewhere across the land the calls for change in the party kept rising.

Elsewhere in the nation and the world:

By Friday, another 33,500 Ford workers were idle, out of jobs because 25,000 others had been on strike for a week at plants supplying their factories.

Production of Ford cars and trucks was declining. The United Auto Workers union struck eight Ford plants across the nation on such local issues as washup time, seniority, improved ventilation and overtime allocation.

As the shortage of parts spread, the company furloughed the 33,500 workers in other plants. Arjay Miller, president of Ford, said "our entire operations will stop next week if the strike continues." That would hit 135,000 production workers.

That season had come again, and President Johnson officially proclaimed Nov. 26 as Thanksgiving Day and called on the nation to pray that "the forces of evil, violence, indifference, intolerance and inhumanity may soon vanish."

The harvest season was over, he said, "and our storehouses bulge with the bounty of the land."

In New England, New Jersey, West Virginia and elsewhere the streams and reservoirs were running dry, forest and brush fires menaced the towns, and farmers had to buy fodder to replace the burned out crops.

In many places there were water emergencies, and the weather man held out little hope of satisfying rains for the rest of the month.

In Moscow, the shouting and the tumult died, the Red captains and the kings departed.

One by one the rulers of the Communist world went home, and the last of them to go was Chou En-lai, premier of Red China. He left after eight days of talks, and the official communique said the discussions with the new rulers of the Soviet Union had been "frank and comradely."

The experts concluded that meant they were a failure in healing the ideological rift born during the reign of Nikita Khrushchev.

Even as Chou departed, the Russian party newspaper Pravda was restating the policies that so irritated the Peking regime — peaceful coexistence with the United States, friendship with India.

It appeared the only agreement between Moscow and Peking had been to postpone a world Communist meeting for the time being, in favor of continued Russia-China talks in the Chinese capital soon after the turn of the year.

It was also a week of bizarre thievery. A pair of masked men broke into the 7th Regiment Armory in New York on Sunday morning, handcuffed the watchman and made off with a — book cover.

But it was no ordinary book cover. It was of gold, burnished and jeweled and it was valued at $75,000. The thieves tore it from the regiment's Book of Remembrance, which enshrines the names of 840 New Yorkers who died at Gettysburg and Omaha Beac, in the Argonne and at Inchon.

nd in the Soviet Union, where, by official declaration, crime no longer exists, it became know that "rare and priceless" articles had been stolen from the Moscow Historical Museum. Included in the loot was a diamond-encrusted sword hilt, but the indignant official press reported that the articles had been recovered in the Caucasus, and two unidentified men would stand trial.

And again in New York, thieves entered the town house of Mrs. Clarence H. Mackay, the former opera star Anna Case, and made off with $111,000 worth of jewelry and furs, possibly including the famed Mackay emerald. Mrs. Mackay, whose stepdaughter is married to songwriter Irving Berlin, was in a hospital for minor surgery at the time.

The American nuclear powered submarine Seadragon nosed slowly through the harbor of Sasebo, Japan, and outside the gates of the United States Naval Base in that city nearly 000 young leftists demonstrated noisily, delivering the Japanese equivalent of "Yankee go home!"

As Japanese demonstrations go, it wasn't much. And it didn't interfere with the Seadragon sailors going on liberty in Sasebo Friday.

But it was a milestone — the first nuclear powered submarine to enter a harbor of Japan, the only nation in history to have suffered a nuclear attack. There was much dispute and debate about the Seadragon, but after long debate the Japanese government said come ahead.

Quotes of the week:

"If we make the bomb, India will simply fade out as an international force for peace." — Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri.

"We, Charlotte, by the grace of God Grand Duchess of Luxembourg and Duchess of Nassau, proclaim that we are renouncing the crown of the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg in favor of our beloved son, the Crown Prince Jean." — Grand Duchess Charlotte.

For the British consumer and bond-clipper the plan to raise some sales taxes and levies on high bracket incomes will be unlucky.

But for many American shoppers there are promises of tax cuts on a number of items at the stores. And for many American business firms there's also hope of more cash in the tills from still further relaxation of tax rules.

The British are raising taxes because sudden prosperity has sent both consumers and industries on buying sprees and thrown government fiscal affairs, especially in foreign trade payments, out of kilter.

Washington is talking of abolishing excise levies on a number of goods taxed at the retail sales level and cuts on some taxed at the point of production. The idea is to increase sales by making goods cheaper to the consumer, and thus to give the economy another nudge upward from its already highly prosperous level.

The American proposals might save consumers anywhere from $550 million to somewhat less than $2 billion a year, and save businessmen some $200 million to $300 million in calculating corporate taxes.

The British schemes might cost $588 million a year through higher corporate and personal income tax rates and stiffer levies on such things as gasoline.

The American tax cut proposals stem from rising treasury receipts as both individual and corporate incomes increase. So Uncle Sam feels wealthier and more generous.

Now the government is more interested in seeing the economy expand than in taxing consumers. The federal income tax cut earlier this year has stimulated consumer buying to a still undetermined extent and encouraged business to expand.

The hope is that all this will push the economic growth rate high enough to provide the new jobs needed to trim the stubbornly high total of unemployment and to counter the loss of old jobs through automation and technical advances.

The idea that, if government pours more money into the economy by spending than it takes out through taxes, the stimulant eventually will more than offset the Treasury deficits that result during the process.

Eliminating some excise taxes and cutting others, and allowing business firms to take speedier depreciation allowances for tax purposes, are the plans at the top of the list for the incoming Congress. Still further lowering of income tax rates may come later.

Whether it all works out the way the planners expect, many Americans will feel themselves lucky when their tax bills go down. And the administration seems confident that Congress will like that and vote the tax changes.

Why Children Run Away

It's usually not the "intolerable" situation that drives a youngster to such a drastic step; more often, it's anger generated by lack of parental understanding

By MINER C. HILL, M.D.
Fellow, American Academy of Pediatrics with Adele Whitely Fletcher

NOT LONG AGO, two pre-teen girls came into the Juvenile Aid Bureau that serves my area. They literally had been living off the land: sleeping in the woods and fields, eating fruit and vegetables from farms.

Two boys, who were schoolmates of theirs, found them in the woods and for a few days took food to them. Then they persuaded the girls to seek the help of JAB, the division of the police department to which all children under 16 are referred when they come to police attention.

The girls said they had left home because they were "fed up" with their overly strict parents. When their parents heard this, they were aghast. They insisted they were not overstrict; they simply did not believe young girls should come and go as they pleased. But they admitted they had had no inkling of the anger building up in their daughters.

The juvenile bureau has counseled both the girls and the parents, seemingly with happy results. The girls have not left home again. And, with continued professional guidance, it is possible that both these families will come to a much better child-parent relationship.

It would seem that only an intolerable home situation would send two girls out to live off the land. But that was not the case. The home situations from which runaways flee are seldom anything as flagrant as cruelty, alcoholism, neglect, or incessant fighting.

Young anger most commonly reaches a running-away point when parents are considered overstrict, perpetually suspicious, belittling, critical, or unfair. Or when boys and girls are punished or otherwise humiliated before their friends. Or when parents, preoccupied with their own affairs, seem not to care what their children are trying to do or to be.

IT IS NEVER EASY to plumb young minds and hearts. But any effort in this direction is infinitely worth-while. For just as children often have no notion of how they hurt and worry their parents, so parents often have no notion of how they hurt and worry their children. Also, since young people have no practical means of retaliating, they may run away to punish their parents.

The runaway who does not plan to stay away usually does not go very far. I've known boys between 12 and 15 who have hidden for days in a neighbor's cellar where they have been fed by young friends.

I've known girls who have followed the same pattern. Girls, however, are more inclined to have dinner and spend the night with one girl friend after another. Their friends always are vigilant to see that no member of the household gets to the telephone before they do. And if a runaway's mother or father calls, they're likely to be told that their daughter is not there. This seems heartless. But adolescents tend to pull free of those upon whom they have previously been dependent and to align themselves with their own generation.

Psychologists tell us that all boys and girls from 5 to 7 and upward at least think about running away. And statistics indicate that an ever-increasing number actually take off.

At the risk of crossing theories with the psychologists, I would like to except from their figures those children who enjoy a good relationship with their parents. Successful parents know a child's pride is hurt by a bad report card, so they don't belittle but seek to discover what is wrong so it can be corrected. Neither do they suddenly clamp down on everything after having long been lax. They are quick with a pat on the shoulder, a hug and kiss, or a glance of loving admiration. They know these little things keep boys and girls from wondering if they're unloved.

The children of successful parents are confident that, whatever happens, they can count on their mother and father—not for permissiveness—but for understanding. Consequently, they do not build up the silent or screaming anger that motivates runaways.

THE ONLY THING that might prompt these children to disappear temporarily would be a tv drama or adventure story that appealed strongly to their imagination. A 12-year-old I know, reported missing when he did not come home for dinner, returned bright and early the following morning. He had built a little fire in a clearing in the woods, cooked a can of chili he had taken from home, and slept there. "I just got tired of this stupid old house," he explained. A tv western was found to have been the source of his sudden wanderlust.

When a small child disappears, the first thing to do—after a quick look up and down the street—is to search the house and garage. Look under beds, in closets, in any crawl space. Children creep into these places to hide or play—and fall asleep. However, when a child is nowhere to be seen, a mother, naturally frantic, is more likely to get into her car and race from one danger spot to another: the highway, a lake or pond, the railroad tracks, etc. She forgets the danger spots in the home: closets without ventilation, discarded refrigerators, and old stoves and chests.

When a small boy or girl is reported missing, all policemen and radio cars are alerted and a teletype report goes out. Chances are that the child will be recovered—probably frightened, hungry, and crying—before harm befalls him.

Rarely is running away a symptom of delinquency or, unless repetitive, of any emotional disturbance. Usually the motivation is anger.

Many famous men were runaways, and their biographies make this fact clear: precisely the same gumption that prompted them to leave homes not to their liking later enabled them to get ahead on their own.

Brezhnev: Red Russia's New Master

At the 1964 May Day celebration in Moscow, the guest of honor, Algeria's Ahmed Ben Bella (second from left), was flanked by Khrushchev—and Nikita's successor, Brezhnev.

He is a bushy-browed "nice guy" to some, a vicious enemy of capitalism to others—what is his true character and how will his new power influence world peace?

By BILL SURFACE

LAST month the inevitable—and yet surprising—news flashed across the world: Nikita Khrushchev had been ousted as Soviet premier and Communist party leader.

A new and relatively unknown character strode across the stage of international power politics—Leonid I. Brezhnev, a Khrushchev protégé, and now First Secretary of the Communist party.

As First Secretary, Brezhnev wields more power than the new premier, Alexsei Kosygin, because he controls not only all party apparatus but also the secret police. Only last July, Brezhnev resigned as President of the Soviet Union so he could devote full time to party leadership. For a time, experts expect a coalition of Soviet leadership—but, based on history, when one leader emerges, he is likely to become the party boss.

Whatever the outcome, Khrushchev, a victim of age, poor health, and a power squeeze, can hardly be surprised at his successor. Once, when asked who would take his place, he replied curtly: "That's a question I shall decide." Experts felt he could make it stick—and noted how he had moved Brezhnev steadily up the ladder. But who is Brezhnev? What will his new power mean in the cold war?

Brezhnev is 57, stocky, and virile-looking with thick wavy hair and heavy brows. And he is, by Khrushchev's definition, "a very tough man." Westerners describe him as "smooth," "shrewd," "friendly but reserved."

A Scientist's View of Brezhnev

A close look at Brezhnev resulted last year when Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, led U.S. scientists to a conference in Moscow on peaceful uses of atomic energy. "Brezhnev seemed intelligent and much like an American executive," Dr. Seaborg said in an exclusive interview for FAMILY WEEKLY. "He was well-mannered, reasonable, and smiled often as he talked. Of course, Khrushchev also showed his best front and was pleasant when I met him. If Brezhnev were premier, I could picture him as strong-willed but more our type than Khrushchev."

Upon Brezhnev's orders to "show everything," Dr. Seaborg received perhaps the most complete tour of scientific installations ever allowed any foreigner in Russia. Afterwards, Brezhnev solicited criticism. He agreed with Dr. Seaborg's observation that Moscow's buildings were below standard. "After World War II we hurried to rebuild," Brezhnev said. "But we're studying your styles. It's important that the U.S. doesn't stay too far ahead."

As Dr. Seaborg left, Brezhnev said: "Tell your President that Premier Khrushchev means what he says when he talks peace."

From what is known of Brezhnev's activities, though, he speaks a harder line to Russians. After Russia's crop failures, for example, Khrushchev told a Party Central Committee: "We should learn from the capitalists and copy whatever is wise and profitable in their practice." Not Brezhnev. He told farmers: "Look more soberly . . . History itself long ago passed sentence on the capitalist system, which is rotten to the core . . . The gentlemen imperialists in their mad rage are desperately attempting to disrupt the peaceful toil of freedom-loving peoples."

Few men continually distort facts like Brezhnev. Take the time Soviet tanks unmercifully fired on unarmed Hungarian freedom fighters. Brezhnev's description: "A fascist adventure (that) failed shamefully. But the Hungarian people . . . with the aid of the Soviet Union routed the forces of counterrevolution."

Brezhnev and hypocrisy are not strangers. He has publicly applauded one district's mandatory two-week jail sentence for those who copy capitalist fashions. Yet he himself wears dapper three-button mohair suits, and during a state visit to Yugoslavia in 1962, his pretty blonde daughter Galina, 20, attracted considerable attention by wearing chic French dresses, spike heels, drop earrings, and, later, a bikini.

He also claims he neither drinks nor smokes. But on 14 "peace" missions outside Russia since 1960, he has proved to be an enthusiastic drinker. At a state banquet in Iran, Brezhnev snatched a bottle from a waiter and began pouring and toasting: "Down with protocol. This is faster—ah, to peace, yes, long live freedom." He revealed his ambition: to toast in all major languages.

In this respect, Brezhnev is not unlike most Soviet leaders, who seem to be very fond of liquor. But he doesn't always fit into party moods. Take two Yugoslav receptions. When Britain's prime minister, Anthony Eden, was embroiled in the Suez Canal crisis, Khrushchev laughed: "Have you heard that Eden is sick? Yes, he is suffering from inflammation of the Canal." Despite the joke's crudeness, some guests laughed. But Brezhnev, waving a long-stemmed glass, provoked Western diplomats to walk out in protest. His topics: U.S. "militarism," West German "fascism," and the Common Market's "imperialism."

Up from the Ranks

Brezhnev's background, naturally "purified and corrected," fits the familiar mold for top Soviet party men. He lives with his wife Victoria in a house on a suburban peak called Lenin Hills, overlooking the Moskva River and Moscow. (Communist policies discourage publicity about politicians' families. But besides daughter Galina, they have a son, Yuri, who Brezhnev says is an engineer and married to an English teacher.)

Brezhnev's parents had no political affiliation before the 1917 Russian Revolution. He was born the son of a steel worker in December, 1906, in the Ukraine and at 15 was sent to the steel mills. Next, he trained as a farm irrigator, but at 25 he joined the Communist party and later married a railroad engineer's daughter.

Here begins Brezhnev's real story: he met Khrushchev, then administrator and First Secretary of the Ukrainian Communist party. Between 1936 and 1938, Khrushchev personally directed Stalin's great purges, in which 400,000 prosperous peasants were hanged or shot. Opportunities awaited party-minded young men and, while Brezhnev's exact role is unknown, his quick rise indicates he approved such barbarity. He jumped from a factory job to deputy mayor of his home town and a prominent party official.

When World War II erupted, Brezhnev became a political administrator and later a major general and director of the Fourth Ukrainian Front in defending Novorossiysk. In 1950 he became a province chief and, when Stalin died in 1953, was made a commissar to enforce the navy's loyalty while many factions sought control.

His Corn Grew

When Khrushchev emerged as dictator, he ordered a priority development of "virgin lands"—western Siberia's vast semi-deserts that defied cultivation even with slave labor. Most officials failed. But Brezhnev, then boss of the U.S.S.R.'s largest province that included marginal dust lands, succeeded. Unexpected rains came and corn grew. He was summoned to Moscow as a hero, and his crops used as "typical quotas."

Today, despite Brezhnev's claim that 87 million acres of virgin land are now cultivated, crop failures prompt Russians to joke: "Our comrades are magicians. They plant wheat in Siberia and it comes up in North America." (Russia has had to buy $935 million worth of wheat from the U.S. and Canada.)

Another event that pushed Brezhnev along came in 1957 when Khrushchev discovered that three key officials, Georgü Malenkov, Vyacheslav Molotov, and Lazar Kaganovich, had plotted to overthrow him. They explicitly opposed Khrushchev's one-man power concentration, but Brezhnev helped disguise their motive as "antiparty." Within three weeks, he was promoted to the 15-man Presidium.

From that time, Brezhnev always spoke of Khrushchev as "ya i moi droog" (my friend and I). He profusely lauded Khrushchev's "untiring energy," "revolutionary spirit," and his "sincerity and straightforwardness."

But Khrushchev is also a reminder to Brezhnev of the treachery involved in any Soviet succession. Stalin was replaced by the three-man rule of Molotov, Malenkov, and Lavrenti Beria. But Molotov, Malenkov, and a man few people knew, Nikita Khrushchev, had Beria executed; then, Khrushchev schemed to assign his "partners," Molotov and Malenkov, to Siberia and to Outer Mongolia, respectively.

Such a future could await Brezhnev—but considering his past record of survival in the Communist jungle, it seems more likely for him to become the executioner rather than the executed.

Quips and Quotes

A large turkey surprised the coach of a football team by asking to try out for the squad. The coach was skeptical, but on the first play the turkey ran through the entire defense for a touchdown, then kicked the extra point. On the next play he not only threw a pass but flew down the field to catch it.

"Great!" the coach said. "But one thing—how much money do you want?"

"Money doesn't mean a thing to me," the turkey said. "But tell me—are you sure the season runs past Thanksgiving?"

367 TEST CASES PROVE "INSTANT EXERCISE" WORKS!

Get the slimmer, healthier body you want with this fabulous new minute-a-day isometric short-cut... the most popular exercises ever developed in the U.S.

NEW YORK MODEL

Now it's "instant exercise!" People everywhere are discovering that just one of Dr. Salls' almost effortless 6-second exercises helps keep you fit better than 24 push-ups a day. And why diet when you can take inches off your waist in a few days his easy 6-second way? Or, why torture yourself in a gym when a single 6-second exercise is capable of doubling muscular strength in 3 weeks?

Now you can tone up and trim down in record time . . . without moving a muscle, without "working out" more than 1 minute a day. Doctors, nurses, athletes, insurance firms, citizens coast to coast are turning to the amazingly simple isometric exercises developed by Alabama Doctor of Education, fitness expert and coach, Donald J. Salls. The Navy and Marines are adopting this type of exercise, too. Even the astronauts will use them!

Why? Simply because isometric exercises, better known to so many as Dr. Salls' "Static Exercises", really do work. In fact, they're so effective fewer than 1% of the thousands who have purchased a set under his personal guarantee have asked for their money back. Less than 1%!

Spectacular results have prompted skeptics to ask for special effectiveness studies under professional supervision. And in test after test it's the same dramatic story:

In one group of 253 girls, over 96% improved in physical fitness and over 50% had marked figure improvements . . . all in just 3 weeks, using Dr. Salls' motionless exercises for 1 minute per day.

Over 92% of another group had waistline improvements, decreases of up to 3¼ inches . . . thighs, 84% . . . hips, over 90%. Again in 3 weeks or less!

80% of still another group, measured periodically under the watchful eye of a physician, showed marked measurement improvements in less than 30 days.

A top university had one test group use isometrics for 1 minute daily while another worked on gym equipment for 45 minutes every day. When compared for fitness, the isometric exercisers scored highest in every test!

Here at last are exercises that make sense for car-riding, machine-minded Americans . . . "weekend athletes," people who hate to exercise or don't have time. Here is the answer for the desk-bound man who wants to look trimmer, more muscular . . . for the modern woman who knows so well how important a slimmer, more attractive figure can be . . . for the oldster who seeks to improve fitness, figure and life-span by restoring long-neglected muscles without prolonged or strenuous exercise.

Each of Dr. Salls' wonderfully simple basic exercises takes 6 seconds. All total just 1 minute per day. Instructions are graded for housewives, executives, teenagers and seniors, for superior fitness and prowess in such sports as bowling, swimming, golf. And you can do most of these exercises almost anywhere . . . at work, waiting for a bus, while shaving. No gadgets are required. There's no special exertion, not even heavy breathing!

The revolutionary principle Dr. Salls applies has the impressive support of highly respected educational institutions, leading physiologists, Olympic stars, fashion models, police groups, top pro and college athletes, the A.A.U., the President's Council on Physical Education. And Time Magazine, Life, Reader's Digest, TV, newspapers, scientific journals have called attention to the exciting concept.

Mrs. P. McMorrow of White Plains writes, "I reduced my waist 2 inches, my hips 2 inches — all in 2 weeks, a minute a day, with your exercises."

Jacksonville businessman, J. B. Hammett, states that Dr. Salls' "statics" have allowed him to take 3½ inches off his waistline, trim down to 30½ in a few weeks.

Mrs. E. V. Smith of Madison writes that with Dr. Salls' exercises she's trimmed down her waist from 33½ to 28½, her hips from 43½ to 39½.

Ft. Payne housewife, Mrs. A. Carter, reduced her thighs 1 inch, calves ¾ inch, waist 2 inches in just 2 weeks.

So many users of Dr. Salls' exercises also exclaim: "How much better . . . more alive, more alert, more youthful . . . I feel!" But specifically, he offers:

Results are controlled primarily by the individual's own desires. If a man wants bulging weight-lifter's arms, he simply concentrates on certain of Dr. Salls' exercises. If a housewife seeks a more shapely midriff, a few weeks with several of his 6-second workouts is indicated.

Yes, now you can have a stronger, slimmer, healthier body without the strain or boredom of old-fashioned exercises! Dr. Salls will send a full set of his instructions, complete with illustrations, to interested readers who use the coupon on this page. Remember! These exercises are different: just 6 seconds each!

8 small to medium-sized firm bananas, peeled
Butter-cinnamon mixture I or II (see recipes)

1. Combine the melted butter or margarine with the lemon peel and sugar. Brush lightly over the wedges of dough. If desired, press a few finely chopped blanched almonds into the dough.

2. Roll bananas in one of the butter-cinnamon mixtures. Then, if desired, roll the bananas in flaked coconut or chopped blanched almonds.

3. Place each banana on the long point of the wedge of dough. Roll up and place in an ungreased shallow baking pan.

4. Bake at 375°F about 13 min., or until rolls are delicately browned. Serve immediately. If desired, accompany with a puréed fruit sauce or a hot caramel sauce.

8 banana roll-ups

Butter-cinnamon mixture I

Melt ½ cup butter or margarine in a saucepan. Stir in 1 tablespoon lemon juice, ¾ cup sugar, and 1½ teaspoons ground cinnamon. Pour mixture into a shallow dish.

Butter-cinnamon mixture II

*For a flaky dough from hot roll mix, cut ¾ cup firm butter or margarine into ½ cup of the mix. Chill about 1 hr. Meanwhile, soften the yeast in ½ cup warm water and add with 1 slightly beaten egg to the remaining roll mix. Blend well, forming a stiff dough. Roll out into a 12-in. square on a lightly floured surface. Roll the chilled butter-flour mixture between two pieces of waxed paper into a 10 x 4-in. rectangle. Remove top piece of paper and invert chilled mixture onto one-half of dough. Remove second piece of paper. Fold dough over butter and roll into a square. Repeat folding and rolling three times. Fold again and chill dough about 1 hr. Then roll about ⅛ in. thick and cut into pie-shaped wedges.

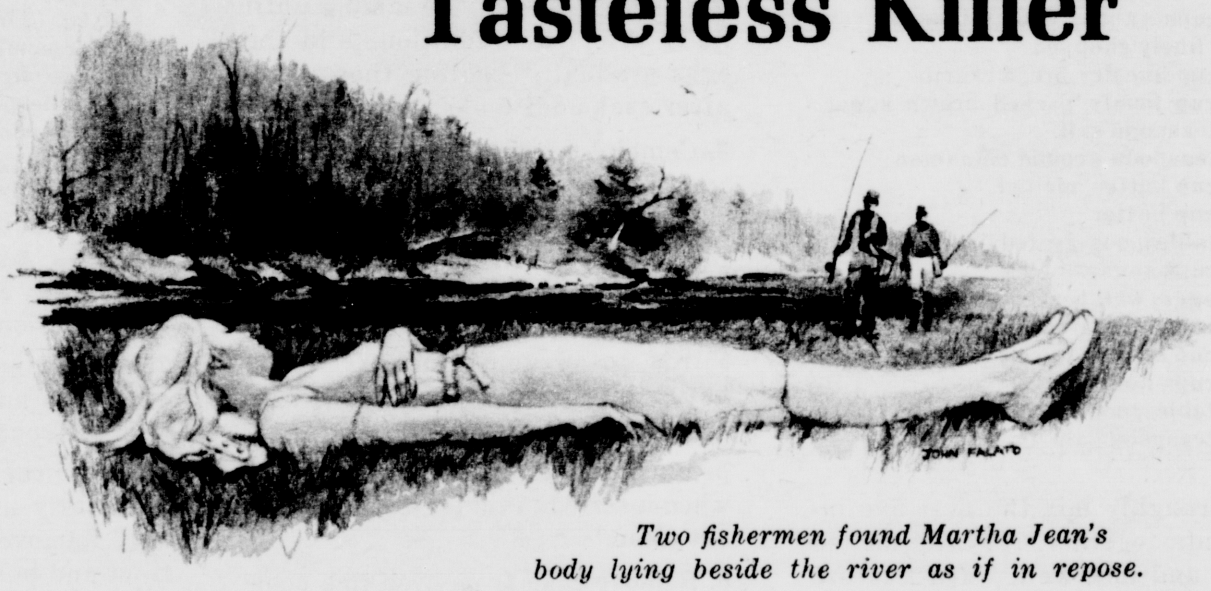
MYSTERY

The Case of the Tasteless Killer



Two fishermen found Martha Jean's body lying beside the river as if in repose.

It was quite obvious: whoever had murdered the attractive blonde had no eye for aesthetics

By WILLIAM T. BRANNON

AN ATTRACTIVE 22-year-old blonde, Martha Jean Hare, was reported missing on Tuesday, Aug. 23, 1960.

Her husband Douglas, 26, told Chicago police she had stalked out the evening before after he had accused her of undue attention to another man.

The next day two fishermen found Martha Jean's body along the Illinois River. She had died of a single bullet wound and was stretched out as if in repose, her sweater neatly folded under her head.

Detective Steve Coffey questioned the other residents of the apartment building where the young couple lived. None had heard a shot or seen anything unusual that Monday night. Then Coffey went to the Hare apartment. Everything was in perfect order; there were no bloodstains and no sign of a struggle.

While the detective was in the living room, a young woman came in and identified herself. She said that she and her husband had visited Douglas and Martha Jean the previous Saturday evening. Martha Jean had seemed in good spirits then, and there had been no hint that she was in any kind of trouble.

"Did you ever hear of her being interested in another man?"

"Yes, Martha Jean was a wonderful housekeeper," the young woman replied.

After conversing with her, Detective Coffey called the sheriff and suggested that Douglas be questioned further. The young man denied killing his wife and agreed to take a lie-detector test. Two tests were given—and they showed that Douglas Hare had guilty knowledge of the murder. Faced with this, he confessed.

Douglas said that, after work Monday, he stopped at a tavern for a few drinks. When he got home, Martha Jean upbraided him for drinking too much. Angered, he seized a rifle and fired one shot as she came toward him. She collapsed on the living-room rug and died immediately.

Suddenly sobered, he concocted the story about his wife's interest in another man and her walking out. After taking their one-year-old baby to his mother's house, he returned to the apartment and wrapped Martha Jean's body in the rug. There were only a few spots of blood on the floor, and he easily removed them with cold water. He waited until after midnight, then put the body into his car and drove to a desolate area near the river. He carefully stretched his wife's body out on the ground, then cushioned her head on the folded sweater.

AT ANOTHER ISOLATED SPOT, he soaked the rug in gasoline and burned it. The rifle had been borrowed; the next day he returned it to the owner after cleaning it thoroughly. Then he went out and got another rug for the living room.

Douglas Hare was convicted of murder and is now in prison. What had tripped him up? Detective Coffey reported that he had been without a good lead—until the young woman had come into the Hares' living room and exclaimed:

"That isn't the same rug that was here Saturday night. Martha Jean had excellent taste. She wouldn't have dreamed of putting a horrible thing like that in here. It clashes with everything in the room."

DO YOU TAKE VITAMINS AND STILL FEEL TIRED?*

If you take vitamins yet still feel tired—you may need more than vitamins to restore your normal strength and energy. Your worn-out feeling may be due to pale, iron-poor blood.

Vitamins alone can't build up iron-poor blood. But GERITOL can! Because GERITOL contains 7 vitamins and, in addition, supplies the amount of iron needed to build iron-rich red blood. Just 2 GERITOL tablets, or 2 tablespoons of GERITOL liquid, contain twice the iron in a pound of calves' liver! In only one day, GERITOL-iron is working in your bloodstream, carrying strength and energy to every part of your body!

Proved By Medical Tests: Patients diagnosed with iron-deficiency frequently were pale, nervous, irritable and easily tired. After patients took GERITOL daily, doctors reported definite clinical improvement.

So when you feel tired, check with your doctor, and if iron-poor blood is your problem, take fast-acting GERITOL every day. You'll feel stronger fast—in just 7 days or your money back from GERITOL.

MICHAEL PARKS

MICHAEL PARKS has done everything from selling newspapers and picking peas and tomatoes as a migrant worker to fighting fires, driving a truck, and upholstering caskets. But now he has settled down to one profession, acting. He has had starring roles in two films, "Fargo" and "Bus Riley's Back in Town," and was signed to play Adam in Dino de Laurentiis' $13,000,000 spectacular, "The Bible," before ever being glimpsed on a motion-picture screen!

Born in Corona, Calif., Mike attended 21 different elementary schools as his family moved about in search of work. He left home to make his own way at 15. And despite his many and varied jobs, he always found time to perform, whether in a coffeehouse reading poetry or as a little-theater trouper. He also sandwiched in some higher education at El Camino Junior College and Los Angeles State College.

The turning point in his career came when he was spotted by talent agent Jack X. Fields. This led to parts on almost every successful tv series.

ANNETTE FUNICELLO

FROM A 12-YEAR-OLD HIT on television's "Mickey Mouse Club" to a 22-year-old movie star is the success story of dark-haired, shapely Annette Funicello.

Thanks to the teasing of her two brothers and the down-to-earth attitudes of her mother and her father (who owns a garage business in Encino, Calif.), Annette never developed a star complex, although she has had leading roles in such hits as "The Shaggy Dog," "Babes in Toyland," and now, "The Monkey's Uncle" for Disney. She also has become an important recording artist. A dozen of her singles and albums have registered among the "top 10" in record polls.

Now engaged to marry Jack Gilardi, Annette wants a big family and a secure home life. "I don't believe in divorce," she says.

TOM TRYON

RUGGEDLY HANDSOME Tom Tryon was born in Hartford, Conn., and thinks he inherited his acting aspirations from his mother, who had been an entertainer for the Armed Forces during World War I.

After graduating from Yale, Tom enrolled in art school. This landed him a job painting signs, posters, and scenery at the Cape Playhouse in Dennis, Mass. Since no one has only one job in a summer theater, he soon found himself playing bit parts—and liking it. Later, he was graduated to Broadway, and in 1952 he understudied the male lead in the hit musical, "Wish You Were Here." "Cyrano de Bergerac" and "Richard III" followed.

During Tom's Shakespearean role, film producer Hal Wallis spotted him and invited him to Hollywood for a screen test. The results were so impressive that Wallis signed Tom to an exclusive long-term contract. Thereafter he worked steadily in movies and tv. His big break came when Otto Preminger chose him for the title role in "The Cardinal," which he is now following with a co-starring role in another Preminger production, "In Harm's Way."

One of Hollywood's most eligible bachelors (he was divorced in 1956), Tom—a quiet man in his mid-30s with a quick sense of humor and a great personal reserve—spends his free hours reading, painting, horseback riding, and playing tennis.

Here are the ones to watch: six entertainers who are wowing the country's greatest movie fans—young people

SHELLEY FABARES

SLENDER, BROWN-EYED Shelley Fabares first won nationwide attention in the role of the eldest child on tv's "The Donna Reed Show." But now she's making her mark in another medium, the movies. Her film debut was in Columbia's "Ride the Wild Surf." In her second film, MGM's "Girl Happy," she plays the lead opposite Elvis Presley.

Shelley, who was born in Santa Monica, Calif., will be 21 in January. She got into show business because her mother and her father (a real-estate man) felt dancing would give her poise. At four, she began dancing lessons and was soon booked for tv and theatrical shows. She became a successful children's-wear model on the West Coast and in 1953 got her big break on a Frank Sinatra television spectacular. From then on, she played roles in many top tv shows. With her recording of "Johnny Angel" in 1962, she successfully entered yet another field.

Now the bride of Lou Adler, vice-president of a music publishing firm, Shelley hopes to add an additional facet to her busy life—being a housewife and mother.

TONY BILL

TWENTY-THREE-YEAR-OLD Tony Bill has been in three motion pictures and had a costarring role each time—in spite of the fact that he had never before appeared in a professionally staged production. His latest film, Warner Brothers' "None But the Brave," is his second teaming with Frank Sinatra. He previously made his movie debut as Sinatra's younger brother in "Come Blow Your Horn."

His first role was won through a letter of introduction from the dean of Notre Dame University (from which Tony was graduated in 1962) to director Leo McCarey in Hollywood. McCarey was impressed by Tony, introduced him to producers Bud Yorkin and Norman Lear. A test was made, Sinatra saw it the next day, and Tony was signed—all in a matter of 36 hours!

Tony was married in 1962 to Toni Gray, whom he met while he was a student at Notre Dame. They have one child. An avid sailor, six-foot, 160-pound Tony participated in the Los Angeles-to-Tahiti boat race in 1961. Says Tony, "If I don't make good in motion pictures, I may take up sailing for a living!"

CONNIE STEVENS

BLONDE CONNIE STEVENS was born at 8 a.m. on the eighth day of the eighth month in Brooklyn of Italian, English, and Mohican ancestry. She was christened Concetta Ann Ingolia and became Connie Stevens simply by adopting the professional name of her musician-father Teddy Stevens.

Her career began in high school with small singing groups. Discovery came when Connie appeared in a television bread commercial. This led to a tv role opposite James Garner in an Emmy-winning "Maverick" show and as the teen-age heroine opposite Jerry Lewis in the movie, "Rockabye Baby." Soon Warner Brothers signed Connie as its first recording star and cast her as Cricket in the tv series, "Hawaiian Eye." She recorded "Kookie, Lend Me Your Comb" with Edd Byrnes and "Sixteen Reasons." Both turned out to be gold records, having sold more than one million copies each. Connie won more fans with her roles in "Parrish," "Susan Slade," "Palm Springs Weekend," and her latest, "Two on a Guillotine," in which she plays three roles.

This season Connie graces the little screen as George Burns' costar in Warner's comedy series, "Wendy and Me." Now 25, she is married to actor James Stacy and hopes to have five children of her own, adopt five more, and have a home in Hawaii—with an Oscar on the mantel!

ART TALENT HUNT
Being Conducted in Iowa and Missouri Area

Young men and women with a natural gift for drawing are being sought in this area right now. The purpose of the Art Talent Hunt is to locate talent that could be developed for commercial art careers. This search is prompted by the nationwide need today for new art talent.

Have you always liked to draw? Does an art career interest you? If you have talent with promise, this may be your chance to be "discovered." So enter your name.

Over $11,000,000,000 is being spent this year for advertising alone—much of that for art. Millions of drawings and paintings must be made each year now by commercial artists. More artists are needed and new talent welcomed. The young person with a gift for drawing does well to consider a future in some branch of the commercial art field.

What do you especially like to draw? Advertising artists draw or paint almost everything—faces, figures, animals, scenes, fashions, boats, cars, and many other products.

Perhaps you have dreamed of illustrating magazine stories. Or painting magazine covers, paperback covers, record album covers. Or designing greeting cards.

Cartooning may be what appeals to you. Cartoonists are used for advertising—especially television. They also do editorial cartooning. They sell cartoons to magazines. They create and syndicate their own newspaper cartoon strips. Many commercial artists specialize in painting murals for stores, restaurants and public buildings. Others develop a profitable clientele for original portraits for homes, firms, institutions—portraits of someone's beautiful wife or daughter, or widely known personages.

The competent artist finds almost unlimited call for his work. More than this, he has the satisfaction of expressing himself in his career. This is true whether he is simply earning a comfortable income or has soared to the upper reaches of his profession through an exceptional gift, fully developed.

Before you set your heart on an art career, get a professional artist to appraise your talent. You can do this now, without cost or obligation, by taking an Art Talent Test by yourself, at home. This test is being contributed by a well-known art school. You take the test in your spare time. When you have completed it, you return it to the school. Professional artists will examine your test and let you know whether you have the necessary talent for an art career.

If your talent looks promising to the professional eye, you will receive expert counsel as to your own future in art. Send today for your free Art Talent Test.
